Withdrawal Starts, Ben-Gurion Wins Vote

Council for Planning, Lacks Votes on $24,750

Plans Off On Modern Charter

Keyser, Democrats Back Plan Idea

A one-vote balance of sentiment in favor of a professionally executed city planning program was shown at last night's Common Council meeting but unless a two-thirds vote comes later the aldermen will be unable to authorize a required bond issue for the project.

A vote of 7-6 accepted a report favorable to planning, but nine votes will be needed at the next session to authorize an expenditure of $24,750 for setting up a professional program.

Duties End

Last night's action also relieved the council's finance committee, which had served as a special planning committee, from further duties as such.

Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk also announced dismissal of a special city charter committee which he had named a few weeks ago and referred a proposed revision of the charter back to Mayor Frederick H. Stang, to determine, if he deems it advisable to appoint another committee.

Acts on Channel 6

A resolution by Alderman James K. Ryan, (D) 10th ward, asks for payment of city taxes in four, instead of two, installments another by Edwin Radel (D) third ward would have the council sessions tape recorded, and another adopted and signed by the aldermen, asked that the Federal Communications Commission not make Station WRGB (channel 6) an ultra high frequency station as proposed.

Consolidation of city bond issues totaling $386,000 was authorized. The issues include one of $247,000 for the rebuilding of streets, $46,010 for the purchase of motor vehicles, $17,990 for purchase of a spreader for the public works department, and $75,000 for street paving.

Aldermen James K. Ryan, George F. McArdle and Richard V. Roth, as the council's finance committee had served as the city planning committee, and Ryan as the sole minority-party member, last night submitted a minority report, which was adopted.

All Reports Read

City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer, on request, read all reports in the council's records, to date, on city planning, and after that, discussion began on the merits of city planning. Some who had voted for the Ryan report changed after reading of the combined reports on file.

Alderman McArdle, noted that although he had served on the committee, he could not see spending the money for planning at this time, and several others went along with that thought.

Give Reasons

Richard V. Roth (R) 12th ward, said he was sure the money spent on the city's streets, William A. Davis (R) 11th ward, could not see "saddling the city with more debt at this time," and Perry felt that the council had no guarantee that the sum would not finally reach as high as $40,000 or $50,000.

In the voting all Democrats, Ryan, Radel, Sass, Smith, Bodenweber, and Zakseski, along with William S. Keyser, (R) Second ward voted yes.

Aldermen Mayes, Perry, Norton, Davis, Roth and McArdle, all Republicans voted no.

Proposal on Milk

Federal Pricing Is Asked

New York, March 6 (AP)—A spokesman for three large dairy groups today said the government should establish the same minimum prices for milk in northern New Jersey as it does for the New York city metropolitan area.

Stanley H. Brenham told a Department of Agriculture hearing that a single milk marketing order was needed to cover the two areas and upstate New York urban centers.

Benham, who is president of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Assn., said he was also authorized to speak for the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency and the Mutual Federation of Independent cooperatives. Collectively they claim membership of 41,000 members. About 30,000 to 35,000 of their members live in the areas that would be affected by such an order.

New York farmers who favor this say a single order would immediately result in a higher price for their milk. At present they get a higher price for milk used for drinking and cooking than they do for "surplus milk"—milk turned into cheese, butter and ice cream.

Jersey Farmers Opposed

Northern New Jersey does not produce enough milk for its drinking needs and dealers buy New York surplus milk at a lower price. Under a single order milk sold for drinking purposes in New Jersey would bring the same price to the farmer as milk sold in New York. New Jersey dealers oppose the change and some New Jersey farmers fear that it may result in some of their milk being treated as surplus at a lower price.

Benham began testifying at the second day of hearings being conducted at the Commodore Hotel by chief hearing examiner G. Osmond Hyde for the Depart-

Sees Peace If Powers Keep Word

Premier Lashes Nasser in Talk

Jerusalem, March 6 (AP)—Israel began moving out of the Gaza Strip and the Aqaba Gulf coast today.

Premier David Ben-Gurion crushed parliamentary opposition to the pullout, winning overwhelming votes of confidence. He said there will be peace "if the United States and other powers will keep their promises to us."

Movement Held Up

Arab disturbances and an Israeli suspicion that the UN emergency force planned to restore Egyptian administrators in Gaza interrupted the flow of materiel from the strategic area for a few hours.

Authoritative reports said the pullout was resumed this afternoon.

The Israeli army announced an Arab civilian and an Israeli soldier were killed and two Israeli soldiers were wounded during an outbreak of sniping and attempted looting.

Ben-Gurion slashed at Egypt's President Nasser in his speech before Parliament preliminary to the votes that overwhelmed his foes—the nationalist Herut, the Communists and the conservative General Zionists.

Must Not Shrink

"If the United States and other powers will keep their word to us, there will be peace," Ben-Gurion said. "If they will not keep their promise and if they shrink before the Egyptian dictator's threats that he will not allow Israeli shipping in the Aqaba gulf, there will be no peace."

Parliament batted down a series of anti-government motions by majorities ranging from 4-to-1 or better.

A Herut nonconfidence motion lost 84-25.

A Communist motion went down 114-6.

Glenerie Votes To Sell School District 18 Site

Resident taxpayers of former Glenerie School District 18, now a part of the Saugerties Central School system, Tuesday night voted unanimously on the four propositions to dispose of the school building and property of old district 18.

A small gathering of residents met in the schoolhouse and voted on the four prosposition on a prepared ballot. The propositions are:

Four Propositions

1. To close the school permanently.
2. To sell the building and equipment.
3. To sell at the best price obtainable and
4. To give the proceeds to the Saugerties Central District.

The school has been idle for some time. Pupils in the lower grades of the area have been attending Glasco School and grades 7 to 12 have been attending Saugerties Main Street School.

The building and equipment will be sold at auction following the necessary advertising of the sale.

Others to Vote

Other former districts will vote on the disposal of their school or schoolhouses at meetings in their schoolhouses at 7:30 p. m. as follows: District 4, Mt. Marion, Friday; District 12, West Saugerties, March 11; District 13, West Camp, March 14; District 5, Saxton, March 18; District 8, Cedar Grove, March 21; District 6, Katsbaan, March 25, and District 7, Asbury, March 28.

Former District 19, Blue Mountain, voted to close its schools on Feb. 28. The lower grades are still attending there but expect to be transferred to the new Mt. Marion School as soon as the building is ready, about Sept. 1.

Fire Rages in Four Stores

Ellenville Blaze Does 200,000 Damage Today

Fire of undetermined origin raced through four frame buildings in the heart of the Ellenville business district this morning causing a total loss estimated unofficially at more than $200,000.

Described as a total loss were: Town Tavern, operated by Solomon Cohen, where the fire is believed to have started.

Crown Jewelers, of which Aaron Jaffe is the proprietor.

Buchsbaum and Afron Clothing Store, owned by Leo Buchsbaum. This was formerly the Afron Store.

Herman's Barbershop, operated by Herman Silver.

All Close Together

All four buildings, located close together on Market street near Center street, are owned by Mr. Buchsbaum. The four buildings, of two-story frame construction, have a frontage of approximately 15 feet.

Adjoining buildings were wet down by Ellenville's three hose companies and were not apparently damaged, it was reported. Also at the scene was equipment from the Napanoch Fire Department. Ellenville volunteer fire companies fighting the fire which was discovered about 8 p. m. were the Pioneers, Scoresby and Kimble Hose.

The fire apparently broke out in the cellar of the Town Tavern or Buchsbaum's, it was reported.

Spreads Rapidly

Mr. Cohen discovered the tavern filled with smoke when he reached the building this morning. It soon burst into flame and spread rapidly through adjoining structures.

The four buildings were described as a "total loss." Large stocks of clothing, jewelry and whiskey were reportedly lost.

Miller's Drugstore, located a few feet from the burning structures, reportedly received some smoke damage. The walls of the drugstore were kept wet to keep the fire from leaping to Miller's.

Other Buildings Saved

Other buildings in the area were undamaged, it was said.

The Rothkopf Department Store across the street was open for business, although smoke was reported as rather heavy.

Also located nearby are Steinhoff's Taxi office and the Masonic building.

Some rooms above the tavern were reportedly occupied by roomers but details were not available. No one was reported injured.

One unofficial estimate of damage placed the figure closer to $300,000, including valuable stocks lost in the flames. The corner on which the buildings were located is one of the most valuable in the village, it was said.

The fire was under control about 10 a. m. but firemen were

$150,000 Asked of Council

Street Repair, Safety Projects Go for Study

A request for $150,000 to finance street repair, and bids for smaller sums for public works safety projects were left in committee at last night's Common Council session.

The requests were by Mayor Frederick H. Stang for the Board of Public Works, and he asked also for the BPW that the West O'Reilly street-Wilbur avenue intersection be improved at an estimated cost of $8,834, and that a guard rail be built on a section of South Wall street at an estimated $1,217.

Beach Proposal Loses

A proposal to use a section of the Kingston Point beach, not used for bathing, for the mooring of small craft, lost by an 8-5 vote, and a bid by the Board of Fire Commissioners for new equipment, was left with the finance committee.

The fire board seeks approval of the purchase of two 1250-GPM pumping engines, a chief's car and a fire-alarm service truck.

Want Exact Cost

Samuel J. Perry (R) fifth ward, held that it would take only "a couple of loads of gravel" to put the unused section of the Kingston Point Beach area in use for the convenience of owners of small craft used on the Hudson river and Rondout creek, but other aldermen felt that it would be better procedure to determine the exact cost before acting on the proposal.

William S. Keyser, (R) second ward, felt that the proposed move was one for approval of the State Conservation Department, and would be a general benefit to the area.

Hirschell Mayes (R) first ward, and Edwin Radel (D) asked that the proposal be held over to determine cost, and Frank Zakseski (D) fourth ward suggested investigation of liability phases of the proposal.

In Brickbat Area

Alderman James K. Ryan (D) 10th ward, questioned whether there would be enough space available, and he thought it would present problems, if it conflicted with bathing activities at the beach. Channels should be marked to prevent mix-up, he held.

Perry noted that small craft have been using the area, and that there would be no costly project to make it more convenient for public use. It was on a side of the beach, he noted, which "is all brickbats."

The six Democrats, with Mayes and McArdle (Republicans) voted against the proposal as presented. Alderman Key-

Murphy Back In Post Here

New York, March 6 (AP)—Assistant Corporation Counsel Vernon Murphy was reinstated in his city post today after being cleared of a charge of exerting pressure on law department employes to buy tickets for a political dinner.

Murphy had been accused of compelling employes in the department's office at Kingston, N. Y., which Murphy heads, and other employes to buy $100-a-plate tickets for a Feb. 16 dinner of the State Democratic Committee.

He was suspended by Corporation Counsel Peter C. Brown about a month ago pending investigation of the charges. Brown restored Murphy to duty after the inquiry disclosed Murphy had not brought pressure on employes, Brown said.

Three Jump From Fire

Jones' Woodstock Home $15,000 Loss

Mr. and Mrs. Seabron Jones and a child escaped from their burning home on Vandale Road, town of Woodstock, early this morning by jumping from a second story window.

Two other children, who would have been sleeping on the first floor where the fire started, were visiting friends at the time.

West Hurley firemen were summoned at 1:45 a. m. by Mr. Jones who had been unable to call Woodstock since his phone was out of commission. He went to the home of Lee France at West Hurley and summoned firemen. A call was also sent to Woodstock by a neighbor and both West Hurley and Woodstock responded, the Woodstock firemen arriving shortly after West Hurley reached the scene. Both departments fought the fire and protected a number of buildings in the vicinity.

The Jones residence, a two-story frame structure, was enveloped in flames when the firemen arrived and was totally destroyed.

Cause of the fire was not determined and it was reported the loss was about $15,000 with $8,000 insurance coverage.

West Hurley sent two pieces of apparatus under Chief Lewis McNally and Woodstock sent three under the direction of Chief George Hawthorne and Assistants Eric Wiltz and Douglas Franckling. About 40 firemen from the two communities responded. Six lines were directed on the fire.

Several buildings located a short distance away from the Jones home were saved, including the Floyd Wilson dwelling. Recall was sounded at 3:30 a. m.

Traffic Officer Is Suing For $75,000 on Injuries

A claim of $75,000 against the city for injuries suffered while he was doing traffic duty several months ago was filed by Special Patrolman Michael D. Mazzucca, 16 Lindsley avenue, at last night's Common Council meeting.

Another claim for $12,500 was filed by Officer Floyd M. Krom, of 156 Fairview avenue, in behalf of himself and son, Bruce Edward Krom, who suffered a broken leg last Nov. 21 in a downtown lot owned by the city.

Both were referred to Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy. Howard C. St. John is listed as the attorney for Mazzucca and Rusk & Rusk represents Officer Krom.

Officer Mazzucca was injured while on traffic duty at Broadway and Hoffman street in November on a night when a ball was held in the municipal auditorium. He was hospitalized for some time, and the information filed with the claim indicates that full extent and nature of his injuries are not known.

The claim holds that the city was negligent in failing to provide the claimant with "necessary equipment while directing traffic in performance of his duties." No adequate markings were provided, it is held, and he

Constance Reppert Killed In Seattle Airplane Crash

Constance Reppert, about 24, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reppert, formerly of Kingston, was instantly killed Sunday in the crash of a military plane near Seattle, Wash.

Miss Reppert, a graduate of Kingston High School, well-known in this area as a talented actress, was flying into Seattle from Alaska where she was stationed with the entertainment division of the Armed Forces.

Three crew members, the hostess and two passengers, reportedly lost their lives when the plane crashed into a peak in the Olympic range about 18 miles from Seattle Airport.

Miss Reppert and the other passenger were apparently thrown clear of the plane when it crashed in a heavy fog. The others were burned beyond recognition, it was reported.

It is understood that Miss Reppert, remembered for her work in the local dramatic group and summer stock, was completing the first leg of a flight to Elkins, W. Va., to surprise her mother on her mother's birthday

An older sister, Mrs. George Nichols, of Woodstock, is a teacher in the Woodstock School.

Mr. Reppert, former manager of Montgomery Ward's store here, is now manager of the Ward's store in Elkins. He was transferred about six years ago.

The Repperts have many close friends in Kingston and Ulster county who were shocked to learn of the tragic death of Miss Reppert.

Mrs. Ralph Harper of 224 Fair street recalls that Miss Reppert took the lead role of "Peg" in "Little Women" when it was presented by the KHS senior class.

She recalled also visiting the Repperts and Elkins and reading the fascinating letters which Miss Reppert was writing from her Alaskan station. Mrs. Harper said that she loved her work and life in Alaska.

Miss Reppert was in charge of organizing and planning programs for the entertainment of members of the armed services in Alaska.

The funeral will be held sometime Thursday in Oxford, Mich.

Senate Votes Bypass

Route to Relieve City, Aid Tourists

The Senate late yesterday passed the Bush bill which would authorize construction of a by-pass route skirting the city of Kingston to connect Route 209 at Hurley with Route 9W north of Kingston.

This bypass route would connect with 9W at a point near where a spur connecting with the western approach of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge is proposed.

Introduced in the assembly by Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson, a similar bill authorizing construction of the major bypass, was passed in the lower house on February 26.

Direction of Route

Under the Wilson bill and the bill introduced in the Senate by Senator E. Ogden Bush, the road would skirt the City of Kingston to the west of the existing alignment of Route 209 and make connection with the Thruway at the Kingston interchange. Extending northerly the route would join Route 9-W in the vicinity of the intersection with the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge road, providing a direct connection for traffic from Pennsylvania and the west with New England routes. It would divert through traffic from the congested streets of the city.

Governor Knows Need

Governor Averell Harriman, when he visited Kingston on Feb. 2 for opening of the bridge, expressed need for the route and said it would have priority. It is expected the governor will sign into law the Assembly and Senate measures.

Introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Woodstock in the Assembly the bill was passed there on February 26. Action on the Bush bill in the Senate was delayed when appropriations legislation took preferred position. The bill came up for a vote late Tuesday and was passed by the Senate.

Having been approved by both houses, Assemblyman Wilson said today, the measure would be sent to the Governor for signature along with a memorandum stating why it should be signed into law.

Alignment Up to SPW

Final decision as to alignment and exact location of the proposed bypass route rests with the state superintendent of public works.

Regardless of the plan finally approved, the road will join Route 209 at a point near the Hurley Hotel and extend from that point generally northeasterly to the general area of Route 9-W, the Neighborhood Road and the IBM plant.

One proposed plan would bring the road over Route 28 east of the Thruway in the vicinity of the interchange and the other would bring it west of the Thruway at a point between the interchange and the Sunset Drive-In Theatre.

Provision is made for a connection with the Thruway interchange as well as with the new Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge road which will

Cheyenne Target Of Bitter Storm

Cheyenne, Yyo., March 6 (AP)—A bitter late-winter storm whirled down onto the plains of Wyoming and Colorado today, centering its wrath on Cheyenne.

Winds up to 40 miles an hour accompanied six inches of snow here and lesser amounts elsewhere in the eastern half of the state.

Highway travel was halted on roads west and south of Cheyenne. Greyhound buses were reported halted at Laramite and Medicine Bow and at Eaton and Nunn, Colo., where their passengers took shelter in stations and hotels.

The Highway Patrol said it had no reports of stranded motorists.

Four inches of snow was on the ground at Laramie, Casper and Douglas.

Moving south and eastward, the storm was expected to dump up to three inches of snow on the Colorado plains by tonight.

As much as five inches of new snow fell yesterday and last night at most mountain stations in Colorado.

Given Four Months For Hoax Phone Calls

Mineola, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—Harold B. Snyder, 32, was sentenced to a four-month jail term yesterday for making hoax phone calls in the kidnaping of Peter Weinberger last summer.

Snyder, who will serve his sentence in Nassau county jail, was convicted by a jury of making the calls to the kidnaped baby's family. He was arrested July 16 during the height of the search for the baby.

The Weinberger baby was kidnaped from his home July 4 by Angelo Lamarca who abandoned the infant to its death in a clump of bushes not far from his Westbury, N. Y., home. Lamarca is in Sing Sing prision awaiting electrocution.

Close Race Seen In Irish Voting

Dublin, Ireland, March 6 (AP)—First returns today in the Irish general election indicated a neck and neck race between supporters of Eamon de Valera and John A. Costello.

A west Dongegal district—one of 40 throughout the republic—sent the same two men back to the Irish parliament.

P. O' Donnell, minister for local gevernment in the Costello government, collected 6,208 votes. J. Brennan, a follower of the American-born de Valera and a Fianna Fail party stalwart, trailed by 151 votes.

The two men held their seats with about the same margin as in the last general election held in 1954.

Three years ago the 74-year-old de Valera fell short of gaining a majority in the 147-member dail (parliament). He needs to pick up seats to again become prime minister.

He has turned thumbs down to the idea of forming any coalition with other parties.

Ridgely F. Cornell Blend Bes, owned by Ridgeley Farms, Stone Ridge, milked twice daily for 365 days, producing a total of 18,049 pounds of milk and 676 pounds of butterfat as an eight-year-old.

Fernbrook Villette Bonnie, owend by Carl H. Swenson, Jr., Wappingers Falls, milked three times daily for 365 days; producing 18,652 pounds of milk and 660 pounds of butterfat as a six-year-old.

Need More Details

Detroit, March 6 (AP)—An appeals board composed of men "outside the union" is being considered by the United Auto Workers Union to give members and locals another arena for their intra-union complaints. A spokesman for the union said last night there was "general agreement" among the UAW leadership that a plan for such a board "should be recommended" at the international convention in Atlantic City, N. J., in April. Details for the proposed board have not been worked out, the spokesman said.

Dies After Fall

New York, March 6 (AP)—Arthur Parsons, 54, of 10-15 Forley street, Elmhurst, Queens, died in Columbus Hospital today after he slipped and fell down a flight of 12 steps in a restaurant at 119 E. 14th street, police said. Parsons apparently was going to a basement washroom when he fell last night, police said.

SURRENDER ON CYPRUS—A 22-year-old EOKA fighter walks with upraised arms under watchful eye of British soldier after being flushed from cave hideout in central Cyprus March 3 following an eight-hour gun battle. Swimmer, Wife Held On Torture Charges

Algiers, March 6 (AP)—Rene Kovacs, French swimming champion in 1939, and has wife were today charged with participating in the torture-murder of a French Moslem.

The two already have been accused of conspiracy in an attempt to assassinate the French military commander in Algeria.

Authorities said Kovacs and his wife belong to a group known as "Ultras." The group is violently opposed to any French concessions to Algerian Nationalists.

Police charged Kovacs and his wife helped kidnap a French Moslem, a tobacco seller last Dec. 16 and took him to a farm 20 miles south of Algiers. There, authorities said, the man was tortured two days until he died.

Indicted for Magazines

Rochester, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—A Monroe county grand jury has indicted a local news agency and seven newsstand operators on charges of selling, or possessing with intent to sell, allegedly indecent magazines. Named in the indictments were the Manson News Agency Inc. and the seven newsstand operators, all of Rochester. The defendants pleaded innocent at the arraignments yesterday before County Judge Clarence J. Henry. Judge Henry adjourned the cases until March 13. Trial dates are expected to be set at that time. The charges are misdemeanors under the state penal law.

Car Fire Checked

West Hurley Fire Department responded Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. for a fire at Glenford road and Onteroa Trail where a car, being towed to a junk yard by William Harris of East Kingston, was on fire. The fire started by friction on a rear tire communicated to the gas tank which exploded. Deputy Sheriff Wesley O'Brien reported the fire and directed traffic at the scene. The fire was extinguished with booster lines under the command of Chief Lewis McNally. The recall was given at 4:10 p. m.

McCarthy Not Invited

Washington, March 6 (AP)—The White House ended its 1957 social season last night with the biggest reception of the year and a clear indication that Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) was still on its snub list. He alone of all the 529 congressmen now in office did not get an invitation to any of the six state functions held at the White House since January. The news that McCarthy had not been invited was confirmed earlier by James Hagerty, White House press secretary, who declined to give any reason. McCarthy frequently has been a critic of administration policies. A number of other senators were absent. Many were held up by the late Senate session at which the President's Middle East resolution finally was approved.

Republic Closes Two Long Island Plants

Farmingdale, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—Republic Aviation Corp. is closing branch plants at Port Washington and Greenlawn on Long Island.

Many of the 2,100 employes involved will be absorbed in Republic's main plant at Farmingdale, the company said yesterday. Republic said it would continue to operate branch plants at Hicksville and Mineola along with its warehouse at Montauk. They also are on Long Island.

Closing of the two branch plants is in accordance with a cutback announced last month. Some 4,000 employes are to be dropped from the payroll by June 1. Republic now employs some 18,000 workers.

In announcing the cutback, Republic said production schedules on its F84F Thunderstreak fighters were about completed while volume production of its new F105 Thunderchief had not yet started.

Area Holsteins Are Given Highest Rating

Bennland Klaude Holly, a registered Holstein cow owned :by Ridgeley Farms, Stone Ridge, and Ellbank Sensation Elizabeth, owned by the estate of Roy W. Wright, Pleasant Valley, have been officially classified "Excellent"—the highest rating attainable in the type classification program of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

This highly select designation is applied only to animals scoring 90 or more of the 100 points representing theoretical perfection in body conformation. Of more then 30,000 registered Holsteins officially classified for type last year, only 305 were rated "Excellent."

The Ridgely Farm Holstein scored 90 points and the Wright Holstein 91, it was reported. The official inspector was J. A. Fairchild of Berwick, Pa., a member of the staff of the national Holstein organization.

Britain to Build 16 More Nuclear Power Stations

London, March 6 (AP)—Britain plans to triple its atomic power program by building 16 more nuclear stations.

Lord Mills, minister of power, told the House of Lords the government hopes to have 19 stations in operation along the coasts by 1965. He said such a program would provide about one fourth of the electricity the nation needs.

Three nuclear stations were ordered when the atomic energy program was set up by the government in 1955. One already is supplying electricity.

The power minister estimated the cost over the nine-year period at about 1,460,000,000 pounds ($4,088,000,000). He said the big increase was decided upon because of the greatly expanding demand for power and the financial burden of buying fuel abroad.

Britain's oil imports have been reduced sharply since Egypt blocked the Suez canal and many government leaders feel the political situation in the Middle East makes the future availability of oil supplies doubtful.

LOOK BACKWARD, AMERICAN

We Americans often tend to scoff at our European friends for immersing themselves so deeply in the stream of their long history. But it might be better if we could manage more than a short dip.

We don't have any trouble remembering Washington, Lincoln and a handful of our other greatest heroes of the past. Indeed, in some quarters interest in Lincoln and Civil War times has attained fantastic proportions.

But countless public figures in all walks of life are too readily forgotten, as are the events they were caught up in. It is truly startling, for example, to hear how many Americans under 40 never heard of Charles A. Lindbergh.

And, oddly enough, people young and slightly old sometimes know surprisingly little of the background in fields they like to think of as their specialties. One wonders whether the rock-and-rollers of 1965 will know whether the late Tommy Dorsey was a trombonist or a pro football player.

Admittedly, Americans live in a land and a time so constantly crowded with fresh experiences, with new impressions, that the old can be quickly shoved out of sight and memory. The miracles of electronic science still unfolding are not likely to lessen this powerful impact of the immediate.

There is much to be said, of course, for a people that seeks out the new, that likes to innovate and experiment, that can compel change and then in so many ways adapt to it.

Yet we Americans lose many valuable lessons for not remembering our history better, no matter what the field of endeavor. A lot of breath and energy could be saved if we troubled to look back even a couple of decades sometimes to see what has been said and done by others.

For those who don't want historians and others telling them they should gain instruction from the past, some would say simply that they're missing a lot of fun, too. Pleasure is not limited to the things of the moment. By delving into history, endless amounts of it can be uncovered.

We don't need to rush out to join a bunch of historical societies. But neither do we need to put a blank sheet between us and yesterday.

Today is pretty exciting for most Americans. But the receding yesterdays were all todays once. And they were pretty exciting, too.

COMPASSIONATE VIOLINIST

This is the age of noise. Buses rumble and snort. Big tractor-trailers, vertible highway locomotives, pound our ears. Bicycle packs of youngsters fill residential streets with the shrill cries that underscore today's fun. Inside the house, the TV set prattles on into the night.

Here and there a small counter-trend develops, though the headway is small. Following the example of Paris, New York City bans automobile horn-blowing with only modest effect. TV announcers on the late trick softly urge us to turn the set down a bit.

But for real ingenuity in the noise-to-silence counter-offensive, we'll take the effort of 23-year-old Joseph Carcione, budding violinist with Washington's National Symphony. He's found a way to limit the sound range of a high-pitched violin to a mere 18 inches. People sitting across the room can't hear him as he saws away in endless rounds of practice.

He takes an old fiddle bow, washes the hair to soften it and uses it without resin. It works wonders.

If some of our clever countrymen can apply the same simple common sense to some of our other more generally offensive noisemakers, this civilization may yet be able to calm its nerves.

In the northern part of the United States, the people have frequent opportunity to observe that, just as one swallow does not make a summer, so one mild day does not make a spring.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

MacARTHUR AND MARSHALL

It will always be an arguable point whether General George Marshall's cross-Channel invasion of France was a correct move in World War II or whether the British strategy devised by General Brooke, subsequently Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke, to go into Europe through the Mediterranean was not more correct. At any rate, had Brooke's ideas prevailed, the world would probably not today be faced by the extension of Russian power to the Elbe.

Viscount Alanbrooke's war diaries have been put together in a book, "The Turn of the Tide," by Arthur Bryant. What interests an American most in this lengthly and rather hard to read but historically invaluable tome is the everlasting difficulties between the British and American points of view and what the professional soldiers thought of each other. Viscount Alanbrooke was the British Chief of Staff, the opposite number to General George Marshall and actually, at one time, it was expected that he would be in charge of the Western Front, but because of the preponderance of American troops and supplies, that position was given to Marshall of whom the British did not have too high an opinion as a strategist. At one point, Viscount Alanbrooke wrote:

"When arguing with Marshall I could never get him fully to appreciate the very close connection that existed between the various German fronts. For him they might have been separate wars, a Russian war on the one side, a Mediterranean war on another and a cross-Channel one to be started as soon as possible. I have often wondered since the war how different matters might have been if I had had MacArthur instead of Marshall to deal with. From everything I saw of him I put him down as the greatest general of the last war. He certainly showed a far greater strategic grasp than Marshall. I must, however, confess that Winston was no great help in the handling of Marshall, in fact the reverse. Marshall had a holy fear of Winston's Balkan and Dardanelles ventures, and was always guarding against these dangers even when they did not exist."

This tribute to General MacArthur from the British general in the war comes as a surprise because most of General MacArthur's friends have believed that it was the British who made all the trouble for him in Japan and in Korea. So little of the documentation of the war is yet available that we hardly know what happened. As each memoir and diary is published a little more is added. The Alanbrooke book causes one to wonder how the war was fought and won.

Marshall ultimately won the day and his ideas prevailed. Also the war was won. Hitler commited suicide and Germany was partitioned. But a closer analysis of the facts as viewed in the year 1957, must be convincing that the benefits of the war went to Russia and that from 1945 until today, there has been no peace in the world.

Nothing in this book indicates that British strategy was based on a fear of Soviet Russia and the Communist Revolution. It is apparent that while the British military thought that they knew best how to fight the war, they also had little enough respect for the American command. In one place, Alanbrooke wrote in his diary:

". . . I liked what I saw of Marshall, a pleasant and easy man to get on with, rather overfilled with his own importance. But I should not put him down as a great man."

Curiously, Marshall had about the same opinion of Alanbrooke and it must have been something of a chore for Winston Churchill to keep these men in harness, as they had to be. This Alanbrooke comment was most interesting:

"After lunch I had Marshall for nearly two houds in my office explaining to him our dispositions. He is, I should think, a good general at raising armies and at providing the necessary link between the military and political worlds, but his strategical ability does not impress me at all. In fact, in many respects he is a very dangerous man whilst being a very charming one . . But . . his plan does not go beyond just landing on the far coast . . . I asked him this afternoon—Do we go West, South or East after landing? He had not begun to think of it."

The book is an eye-opener.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE "PERSECUTED" PERSON

For the last couple of days we have been talking about the paranoid mental disorder which is characterized chiefly by a feeling of hostility and persecution, whereas these situations do not really exist. The reason I feel we should attempt to understand it is that we all have at one time or another feelings of being "persecuted" although it may be just a fleeting impression. It is when it becomes an ingrown conviction that trouble begins.

The lives of paranoid individuals are dominated by resentment. They are touchy, sensitive, unadaptable. If they are of humble intelligence, men may become "barrack-room lawyers" and spread discontent like a contagious disease in certain occupational communities, while women become peevish, fault-finding, querulous and nagging.

Persons who are well endowed intellectually and happen to attain fairly high places may cause great inter-personal difficulties once they start to exercise power and their activities may occasionally bring disaster to whole communities. Sometimes, in the face of sound legal advice, they ruin themselves by persistent senseless litigation; and sometimes they become reformatory cranks with bees in their bonnets as well as chips on their shoulders. However, on rare occasions, persons of this kind have started social movements from which much good has come eventually.

They seldom seek, or can be brought for, medical advice. If the patient is middle-aged and his life history shows paranoid traits of personality to have been life-long and uninfluenced by changing circumstances, no remedial treatment of the paranoid condition is thought possible; but if they have waxed and wanted in intensity, then a change of social or occupational circumstances may help.

In young people, at the start of a career, who have clearly bitten off more than they can chew, explanatory psychology together with a change of employment may make life tolerable for the patient and his associates. In medical examination for selection for appointment to positions at least as much weight should be given to attributes of character as to physique, as much to life history as to medical history, and one of the more important things to exclude, in the interests of the patient no less than those of the employer, is paranoid personality.

The transient or transitory paranoid reaction is common in the course of a bodily illness accompanied by changing moods. The patient may be frightened and perplexed or bland and mysterious; either way he is suspicious. He may refuse medicine or food, suspecting it is poisoned. A woman patient, seeing her husband escorted by a nurse from the ward, suspects there is "something" between them or, worse still, says that she "could tell by the way the doctor looked at her that he was in love with her." Chance sounds, the murmur of distant conversation, have special significance. When attempts are made to question the patient, he or she becomes evasive and is apt to say, "You know all about it." Conduct may become grossly disturbed and the patient may slip out of his bed and into the street in his night attire. Mild cases can be nursed where they are and are likely to respond to a good sleep induced by a drug followed by abundant reassurance and personal nursing.

"It'll Never Get Off the Ground"

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Two U. S. State Department employes stationed abroad wanted to get married in Israel not long ago. At the time, no license to perform the marriage ceremony had been given to any Protestant by the Israeli government. So the young couple had to fly to Cyprus to be married.

Last December, National Catholic Welfare Conference News Service distributed from Washington reports from Tel Aviv that four Catholic and three Greek Orthodox priests had sent a protest to the Israeli government on "barbarous acts of terrorism against Christians."

The incident behind this protest was the murder of an Arab Christian, Manna Mattia Hallak, who operated a restaurant in Ramleh, near Tel Aviv. Four Israeli citizens wanted the Arab to sell his restaurant. When he refused, he was beaten, stabbed to death and robbed of valuables worth the equivalent of $1,800.

PUBLICATION OF THIS report in parochial papers drew an immediate protest from Israeli consular officials in the United States. It was pointed out that the Jerusalem Post had carried six stories on the crime. They did not mention it as an anti-Christian act.

But the seven priests cited it as a typical example of vindictive treatment which had created fear and apprehension in three Christian communities in Israel.

On Feb. 20, Israeli Premier David Ben Gurion set up a committee to investigate abuses against the mission schools. There are 30 or 40 of these school in Israel operated by both Catholics and Protestants. Some have been in operation for years.

Many well-to-do Jewish families send their children to these schools for a western education. This the rabbis don't like. Bills have been introduced in the Israeli Knesset to punish Jewish parents who send their children to mission schools.

These three relatively unimportant stories are being cited here as understandable examples of Israeli psychology. They are said to explain what motivates the Israeli government and why it has been so impervious to world public opinion in the crisis over withdrawal of Israeli troops from Gaza and Aqaba.

THESE INCIDENTS ARE, of course, nothing compared to the persecution of the Jewish people by other races and religions for nearly 2,000 years. In the balance of world history, the Jewish people have always been more sinned against than sinning on intolerance. It would be natural, however, to expect that when a people so long abused became masters in their own homeland, they would go out of their way to show tolerance to others.

Some Israeli leaders, like former Foreign Minister Moshe Sherett and Teddy Kallek, chief of staff in the premier's office—both of whom have visited Washington—do counsel greater concern by Israel for world public opinion.

Biggest example has been the expulsion of 900,000 Arabs from Palestine to make way for 700,000 Jewish immigrants in 1948. The Israeli justification is that they did not plan to have the Arabs leave. In actual practice, obstacles have been put in the way of the Arab refugees ever returning to their former homes, or being paid.

IN TRYING TO rationalize such actions, articles much franker and far more critical than anything reported here have been written by Jews themselves and printed in "Commentary," the Jewish monthly review.

They have recognized that Israel was founded by Jews dedicated setting up a Jewish state which would be racially and religiously homogeneous. It is said that their leaders' self-centered belief that they are the "chosen people" motivates everything, according to "Commentary."

They are jealous of their new sovereignty. They are unhappy to see United Nations forces in their country, even in their limited authority as "observers" today.

The real Israeli objective is interpreted as a desire to ease the United Nations out of Israel, so that its people will be masters of their own country. In such an atmosphere, a contrary world opinion is held to be relatively unimportant.

Settlement in Middle East Credited to Moral Force

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 6 — Once upon a time a former President of the United States, William Howard Taft, Republican, proposed that there be established a league to enforce peace. This was during World War 1. Subsequently the League of Nations was created. But it did not "enforce" peace, and World War 2 followed.

Today the United Nations is struggling with the same problem— how to "enforce" peace. There are three ways of doing it—by military force, by economic force, and by moral force.

A Soviet veto can prevent military force from being ordered by the United Nations Security Council. The UN Assembly itself cannot order any military measures to be used to "enforce" peace. Only the major powers acting collectively can take effective military action, and they can do so on their own, with perhaps a resolution of recommendation from the UN Assembly to give it moral backing.

Economic force can be exerted by the UN only through the security council, and the Soviets have a veto on this, too. Individual nations, however, can join together and impose "sanctions" or punitive measures of an economic nature, but the UN Assembly cannot order these steps.

Value of Moral Force

Moral force is the only force which needs no previous approval by the Security Council and which can be utilized by the UN Assembly or by the individual member nations in the Assembly acting collectively or in groups or blocs.

It is moral force which is winning battles in the world today. It is moral force which is "enforcing" peace in the Middle East, though back of it may be the awareness that military force and war could be the consequence of a failure of moral force to be successful.

Criticism of the failure of the UN to exert moral force in the past is necessary and desirable. To attempt, for instance, to squelch expressions by Sen. Knowland, Republican, or Sen. Humphrey, Democrat, who are members of the United States delegation to the UN—but who also have a right to speak in their capacity as individual Senators on matters of foreign policy—is to discourage the process of constructive criticism which helps so much to build the moral force of the UN itself.

Role of Congressman

Certainly in the United States, where the Congress is a co-ordinate branch of the government, it is most helpful to send delegations to the UN which comprise members of both houses. If these Senators or Representatives were to be gagged or to be made to feel that, by becoming a part of the United States delegation to the UN they must refrain from expressing outside the UN sessions their own opinions, it will be difficult in the future to get members of Congress to serve on the United States delegation.

Moral force is dependent on public opinion not only in this country but throughout the world. Moral force means free debate of all the issues.

Moral force at the moment makes it incumbent on Egypt to determine whether her government will find any more pretexts to hold up work on the reopening of the Suez Canal and thus risk the condemmation of the United States and the other countries which have just striven so earnestly to persuade British, French and Israeli troops to withdraw from the areas they invaded last October.

Rely on Both Sides

The American government is placing its reliance on both Egypt and Israel to keep the peace in the Middle East. But this does not mean that the settlement which President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles successfully persuaded Israel to accept can be regarded now as the final chapter in the controversy. In a sense, the work of "enforcing" peace in the Middle East has only begun. There are economic aids which can help stabilize all the countries of the Middle East that need help, and there are disputed legal points, like the right of navigation in the Gulf of Aqaba, which, as Mr. Dulles suggests, may have to be left to the World Court at The Hague to decide.

In the meantime, however, the American position is that there must be uninterupted access to the ships of all nations not only in the Gulf of Aqaba but in the Suez Canal until any legal points are finally resolved by a court of justice—unless, of course, direct negotiation can do the job more quickly.

The Civilized Way

Moral force calls for the orderly way — the civilized way. It is the willingness of the President and the Secretary of State here to bear tolerantly the brickbats that came to them from the British and French press last autumn and yet fearlessly champion moral force, which stands out as a great step forward in the world today.

Comparable, too, is the courage of Prime Minister Ben-Gurion of Israel in daring to risk so much in placing his reliance on moral force even though it earned him inside Israel bitter political opposition and possible downfall of his regime. For Ben-Gurion is relying on the good faith and moral position of the United States government to help him secure justice in the current disputes when they are debated in the court of world opinion.

Moral force is effective when it is applied on the side of not just who is right but what is right. It is a great advance in the long search for a way to "enforce" peace.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

My neighbor in the Arizona desert is Hamish McLaurin, a very quiet fellow who writes whodunits and did a big culture job interpreting eastern philosophies for the western mind which is a boss-work on the mysteries that bubblehead Wallace tried to cope with during his dreamy phase.

It isn't so long since Hamish was writing vaudeville acts in New York and banging a typewriter for Charles E. Chapin, the ogre of the Evening World. Well, I guess it was pretty long ago, at that. Late yesterday we sat watching the sun painting Belasco effects on Big Cat, the Catalina Peak which looms back of his patio wall, and Hamish said: "They tell me the World building is coming down."

"Coming down!" I said, "It is down. Plumb done gone. We will never see the golden dome again."

Hamish said, "No! don't tell me. But yes, go ahead and tell me. What is there now in the place of the old world?"

I said, "nothing. At least I don't think there is anything, but I was shocked, hurt so, inside, that I don't believe I took notice. I had a little job down Chambers street and I looked across the park and the dome was gone. I don't think you would want to go back. Spooks all over. George Fife and Martin Green and Lindsay Denison in Perry's little cocktail bar beside the lobby.

"I first saw it in the fall of 1915, the day the Oscar twice sailed for Europe with Henry Ford's menagerie to get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas. I had a papiermache suitcase and I had ridden a local down from Grand Central because someone had told me Wanamaker's had a show-window underground and the local stopped there. And Wanamaker's closed first and then burned out in that big fire. I haven't been around there, though. No sense looking for trouble. I had a girl in Chicago in 1915 and when Christmas came I charged into Wanamaker's and bought her a five-pound box of candy and a walking stick for my old man. So they sent her the stick and my old man got the candy. I heard she had a lot of children and died a grandmother."

Hamish broke in in Denver and made city editor and got $45 a week on the Republican. So he assigned himself to review the new Orpheum bill every Sunday. On that princely wage he saved money as he very well could with that name and with T-bones a quarter at the Manhattan resturant where people stood in line a block long waiting to get in. In due course, he bought himself passage to New York—on the sleeper, too.

He said he was a good conformist and he liked to get traditional, but he had to say that Chapin was very close to him. Other guys hated Chapin's insides, but the only time Chapin pasted Hamish with one of his dirty tricks he more or less had it coming. Chapin was the city editor who finally killed his wife and died in Sing Sing, tending flowers in the hot house.

"I was late for work," Hamish said, "and Chapin did not like guys to come late for work. So it was raining something awful and he sent me out on a stupid assignment that kept me out doors all day. Then he didn't use the story. It was just his way of telling you not to be late. He hated people who quit him, too, but I was one exception because I went uptown as press agent for Roxy at the old Rialto and I sent him a season pass for two. Every Sunday night he and his wife would come to the show and he always spoke very pleasantly to me."

The disappearance of the golden dome was sunset for many of us. The Tribune followed the Herald uptown. The Suns, morning and evening, and the Mail all died. The Daily News began as a crazy experiment in the Mail plant during the off hours, then moved into a loft on Chambers and finally up to 42nd where it has now outgrown its long pants. The Journal and American moved over to the East River. The guild kept demanding a closed shop at the American and finally got just that.

Don Seitz' biography of old Pulitzer said Pulitzer got the bum's rush from a bootblack stand at a hotel because he was wearing a Civil War soldier suit and they didn't like soldiers. So, in time, Pulitzer bought the hotel and put up the World with the golden dome.

"I don't know," I said, "but I think you might feel sad almost anywhere in New York now. We landed there wide-eyed and saw Park Avenue grow up into one of the most beautiful streets in the world. Pretty as Paris. Now they have knocked most of it down and you see those big white x's painted in slashes across the windows, the sign of doom, and tall, shiny, cold things pushing up, with no personality, no curves or beauty. Like little pups littered by that ugly box of the United Nations. I never thought I liked the Third Avenue L, with ratty buildings on both sides of the street. But that L was part of my New York. I never knew Third Avenue was so wide. You have to run before the light changes. Before, you could duck from pillar to post under the L. And the old delicatessens and saloons are giving way to luxurious antiqueries. Bric-a-brac, brocade and tapestry, the easy money overflowing from the United Nations. And the Irish and Italians getting rousted out as the old walkups come tumbling down."

The Sun called it a day and the big cat went to sleep.

"I don't want to go back," Hamish said. "New York was very kind to me, but that wouldn't be my New York."

Cambodia Having Real Red Wave From Chou Visit

Phompenh, Cambodia, March 6 (AP)—Since Red Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai paid a goodwill visit to Cambodia last November, the kingdom's 250,000 Chinese have become sitting ducks for the Communist line.

During his six-day visit, Chou publicly expressed the wish that all overseas Chinese would be good citizens of whatever country they inhabited.

These words hardly sounded like a call to the colors. But since Chou issued them, Red influence has advanced by leaps and bounds in the Chinese community.

Chinese colonies in such communities as Trieu Cheu, Fu-Kien and Ha Ka have all become Communist - controlled since Chou's visit, observers report.

The Communists have taken over Toan Hoa, the largest Chinese school in Cambodia. Communist teachers have been hired in one Chinese school after another. Chinese Communist newspapers have also multiplied. There are now three pro-Communist dailies and only one anti-Communist paper in Phompenh.

The government has warned all foreign groups in Cambodia not to engage in political activities. The Chinese appear to have taken this to heart and are staying out of local politics, the traditional attitude of overseas Chinese.

There are no diplomatic relations between tiny Cambodia and her giant Communist neighbor. Informed sources say the Cambodia government wants to keep friendly relations with China but that it wants to avoid diplomatic ties as long as it can.

China has not stated her position. But Peiping has sent a trade mission to Cambodia. It is said to be studying Cambodia's economic situation and to be working on details of the aid and trade agreement arranged during Prince Sihanouk's goodwill mission to Peiping last year.

China's economic aid to Cambodia is expected to amount to some 22 million dollars over two years.

SWEETY PIE — By Nadine Seltzer

"Hey, mister! You missed a spot!"

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Lately folks have stopped me on the street and mentioned that this year or winter particularly we have not had the usual head-line entertainers in town or the many large social affairs with out-of-town bands at the auditorium.

I did not take particular notice but perhaps they are right. We always got several top stars through our Legion Balls. Herman G. Rafalowsky brought some of the finest stars and bands for years to the auditorium, through his association with the Thanksgiving Ball.

Every year it seemed that every week through the winter, girls were running around buying glamorous evening gowns to get ready for a ball at the auditorium, not this winter.

This year we have had drives for money, one after the other, and the amounts collected seemed unbelievable. As a rule I remember with most every drive there were social affairs of some kind. Perhaps they are out-of-date in Kingston now, who knows.

Last night I watched the Junior League Mardi Gras affair come over TV from New York and it all came back to me. During my dancing years I remember there was a social affair to which you could wear an evening gown at the auditorium nearly every week with wonderful entertainment and bands. I wonder if other readers of this column have noticed the change this year from social affairs for drives to large money raising without any glamorous affairs.

Looking back to the early 1900's—Lew Dockstader Minstrels with Wally Becker used to come to town. They would have a parade on the city streets and even come to Rondout. I used to love to watch them march with their walking sticks and bright colored suits.

These minstel men would pick up local gossip all over town and have the audience in stitches by using local names with their jokes. Perhaps some of the older readers remember.

Going back even further to 1902 or so, one of the finest amateur minstrels gave a performance at the old Kingston Opera House for the benefit of Corporal Sellers of old Company M of the Spanish American War. Some of the folks in that show were: Julius Burgevin, Munroe Burger, Dr. George P. Chandler, Chris K. Loughran. The costumes were furnished by Elmer Burger, while the calcium lights and the slides for the illustrated slides were furnished by William G. Finley. Dr. Chandler made a hit by singing in good bass voice, "Asleep in the Deep." During the intermission the Mary Powell orchestra under the baton of William Reynolds played several selections.

Perhaps some of the older ladies remember the Chicago Stock Company which used to come to the Kingston Opera House and play a whole week with "tear jerkers" as we call them now. The plays were mostly very sad and especially at the end, so that anyone who went to a matinee and walked out from the dark theatre out in the bright sun-light with tears streaming down her face was no novelty to the uptown businessmen. They knew, the ladies had been at the old Opera House seeing a live play, by the Chicago Stock Company.

It is just about 40 years since Frank A. Kenney of New York city, on December 1917 took title to the Wall street theatre, then in the course of construction.

Lenten Season Ushered in by Ash Wednesday

New York, March 6 (AP)—Ash Wednesday observance today ushered in the Lenten season of prayer, fasting, abstinence and penance for Christians around the world. Special services marked the day.

Lent will run for 40 days over a span of 46 days, with the exclusion of Sundays.

The season ends with Easter Sunday on April 21.

Ash Wednesday derives its name from the use of ashes by the faithful. Generally the ashes are obtained by burning the palms blessed on the Palm Sunday of the year before.

The ceremony of distribution of ashes is practiced by Roman Catholic churches everywhere, and by some Protestant churches.

Says Road Measure More Equitable Way

Albany, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—Gov. Harriman today signed a measure that he said would establish a "more equitable and practical" basis in computing state aid for improvement of town highways under the 10-year Erwin plan.

The bill would require use of equalization rates set for the same year as the year of the completed assessment roll. The law now provides for the use of equalization rates established on the previous year's assessment roll.

The measure was sponsored by Republican Sen. Austin W. Erwin of Geneseo, author of the original highway program.

Harriman noted in a memorandum that his budget calls for an increase of 4½ million dollars in state assistance for the improvement, repair and reconstruction of town highways during the next fiscal year.

Power Output Declines

New York, March 6 (AP)—The nation's output of electric power declined last week for the sixth straight week, Edison Electric Institute reported today. Power production amounted to 11,791,000,000 kilowatt hours compared with 11,920,000,000 the week before and 5.3 per cent more than the 11,199,000,000 in the like week last year. Utility sources said the recent decline has been largely seasonal.

Mayor to Urge Buses For Parochial Students

Augusta, Maine, March 6 (AP)—Mayor H. Lloyd Carey of Augusta said he will address a joint session of the board of aldermen and the common council tonight and urge them to provide public bus transportation for parochial school students.

Carey, a Catholic who says he favors the plan because citizens signified they wanted it, said a bill will be presented by one of the seven aldermen. It would set up a framework under which students at the city's two Catholic elementary schools would be carried on existing school bus routes.

If passed by the board, which has five Protestant members and two Catholics, it would then be submitted to the common council of 16 members which is about evenly divided along religious lines.

Carey said if the measure passes both, then the alternative of opponents will be to seek a bill in equity and a court decision. There are no state laws either permitting or forbidding free bus transportation for parochial school pupils.

When the matter came before a previous board in September, it was passed to the council where it was defeated. When again proposed last December after a favorable city-wide referendum, the board thumbed it down by a tie vote while the council also went on record as being opposed 9-6.

Tempers have flared and parents have been swift in enrolling their children in public schools as a means of forcing the city's hand by a March 11 deadline set by families of 600 parochial school children.

Rift Reported Over Red Place In Sukarno Rule

Jakarta, Indonesia, March 6 (AP)—President Sukarno and the head of his army, Maj. Gen. Abdul Harris Nasution, were reported in serious disagreement today over Sukarno's plan to take Communists into the government and institute a "guided democracy."

A high-ranking army officer who attended secret meetings between Sukarno and Nasution disclosed that Nasution voiced opposition to the plan.

Loyal to Leader

Officers and units of the army have revolted in scattered parts of Indonesia, but Nasution himself has been regarded as loyal to Sukarno.

The reported rift may point up just how serious and widespread has become the opposition to bringing Communists into the government.

The source quoted Lt. Col. Ventje Sumual, leader of the bloodless army coup in East Indonesia, as "preferring to cooperate with American Imperialists rather than Communists."

Fears Kremlin Hand

Sumual fears "that this country would be led into the hand of the Kremlin," the source said.

"We may not be involved in politics but we have the right to object if this country will become a dictatorship for the Communists," Sumual was quoted as saying.

A minor party in the government today demanded the resignation of Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo's coalition.

Psii, a spinster, Moslem party, warned that, if the government does not resign, it will withdraw from the cabinet.

Senate Votes

run from Route 9W to the bridge approach.

Flood Bill Read Again

Assemblyman Wilson also reported second reading on a bill which would extend for one year from December 31, 1956, the time for participating in flood assistance in the flood areas. This would give opportunity to complete projects now under way and not completed when the aid program expired at the end of 1956. In many instances projects were not completed and in others claims had not been passed on when the time period elapsed.

Of the authorized appropriation of $1,500,000 approximately $300,000 had been paid out in assistance when the time expired. Extension of the time for another year will permit completion of projects now uncompleted and also permit reimbursement in instances where the time element had prevented communities from receiving reimbursement.

AldermenBacking Planning Lauded By MacAvery

Lawrence J. MacAvery, chairman of the City Planning Commission, today issued a statement of thanks to the aldermen who voted last night in behalf of a city planning program.

"I thank them in behalf of the planning commission for their foresightedness." Every civic-minded citizen, he said, "can see that we need long-range city planning," so that the city can make recommendations as to sewer and water installations, street developments, other improvements and facilities.

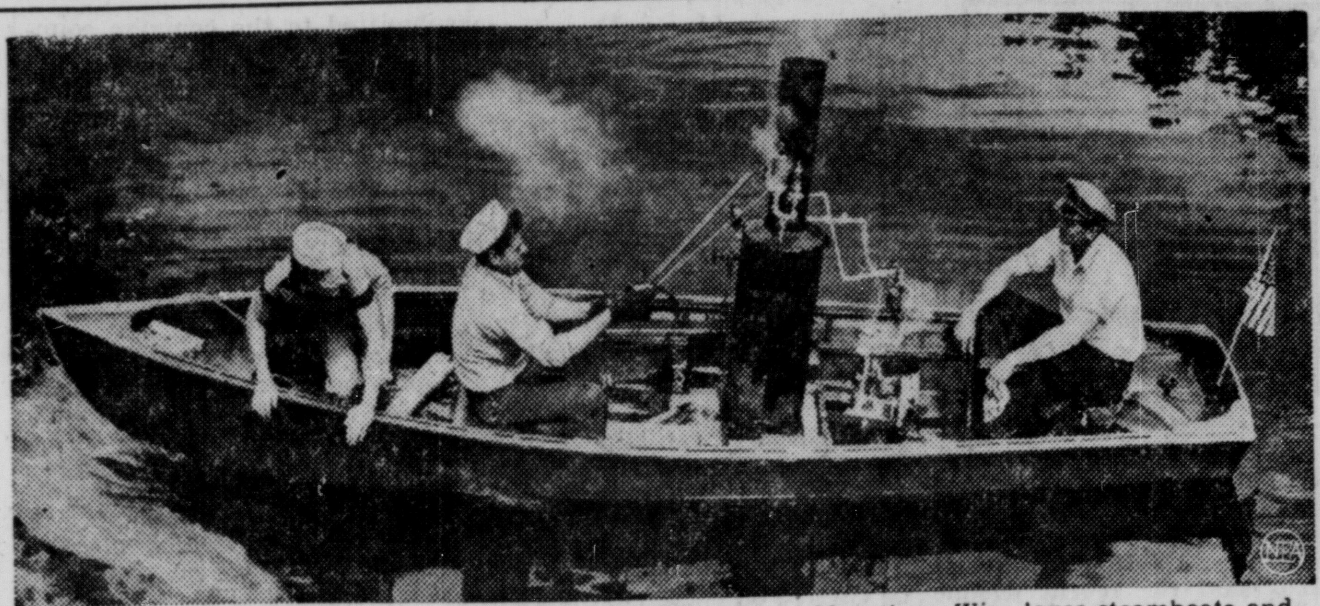
The Common Council voted last night 7-6 for general approval of a planning program, but a two-thirds vote of the council will be required to authorize a $24,750 expenditure for a professional planning study and program, before it can be fully and finally approved.

Former CE Head Dies

Rochester, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—William H. Brown, 77, a former president of the New York State Christian Endeavor Society, died today. Brown, a retired hardware dealer, also had served on the National Board of Home Missions of the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

China's mainland population, estimated at more than 82 million in 1953, is increasing at the rate of 12 million people a year.

AFLOAT AGAIN — The USS Constitution, second oldest U.S. warship, floats again as it is waved into the Naval Shipyard drydock at Boston, Mass. Famed as "Old Ironsides," the three-masted frigate, built in 1799, was docked for an inspection of underwater timbers.



ALL STEAMED UP—"Captain" Delmar Kolbe, right, of Marathon, Wis., loves steamboats and deplores the demise of the great steamers that once proudly rode the rivers of the United States. So, to insure that steamboats don't disappear entirely from inland waterways, he rebuilt his flat-bottomed rowboat into this 16-foot steamboat. It's pictured cruising on the Big Rib River with a couple of the captain's friends for "crew."

Street Repair

ser asked that the proposal be amended and reconsidered, because, he said, "We will be working with the Conservation Department." Several who opposed it, indicated they were generally in favor of the idea, but with changes as proposed.

William K. Bodenweber (D) ninth ward, criticized the public works department for allowing dangerous conditions to exist on the city's streets.

Tells of Flying Stones

"I can't see how we have any efficiency in the BPW," he said. He told of a hole that existed in Hoffman street, which workmen got to "along towards the end of the week" after he had given notice of the condition. Another condition, however, he said was not remedied. Stone were left in the street. These be said were snapped from under wheels of vehicles, into houses and on porches.

A map of the ninth ward, showing areas that could be developed, as requested by Alderman Bodenweber and prepared by City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan, was received and filed at the session.

The plan, Hallinan said, would relieve six dead-end streets. It projects Staples and Brewster streets, Isabella Place to outlets through Ohio street, as well as extending Augusta street from West Chestnut to Andrew street by way of Jarvis avenue extension.

It is possible, Hallinan said, to provide public utilities, water, sanitary sewers, gas and such facilities so that the land can be made habitable.

Zoning Change Requested

Several property owners in the Albany avenue area with land bordering on the lowlands northwest of Albany avenue, petitioned a zoning change to open the way for the Kingston Broadcasting Corp., (owner of WKNY) to build a transmitter unit.

The properties are at the rear of 231, 243, 247, 257 and 263 Albany avenue. The petitioners seek a business zone designation for the land which runs 450 feet paralleling Albany avenue and is about 420 feet deep.

Would Keep Rent Control

The Civil Service Employes Association, through a letter to the council went on record as being in favor of keeping rent control in the city. It was read and filed.

A petition asking that Cordts street be made one-way, entering from Willow street and exit on Delaware avenue, was referred to the traffic committee.

Bodenweber, in a resolution, asked that although Jarvis street, is not an improved street, the city holds title to it, and he asked that it be put in passable condition. It was referred to the public works department, as was one on the "flipping stones" on Hoffman street.

Proposals by Alderman Frank Zakseski, (D) fourth ward that a street running due east between High street and Elm street, be named Szymanski street, and one due east from East Chester street extension to a dead end, be named Lisa Lane, were referred to the planning board. The latter street is north of Kingston Terrace. They had been checked by the city engineers, the alderman noted.

Lip Service

Elizabeth City, N. C. (AP) — Sandra Lee Livesay bid one dollar for her daddy's mustache at a radio auction for charity. Preposterous, said her dad, Milton. He'd owned that mustache for 24 years and wouldn't let it go for a cent less than $50. But he didn't price it out of the market. A group of his fellow members of a service club chipped in a total of $67 and Livesay was shorn with a radio announcer broadcasting a snip-by-snip description.

Retired on Colonel's Pay

U.S.M. Sgt. Charles E. Kelly, 60, has retired on a colonel's pay. He was recalled to the U. S. Army in 1946 as a full colonel, later reverted to his permanent rank of master sergeant.

SEEING U.S.—ON THE CUFF—Eugene Sermely, one of Europe's outstanding jazz pianists, and his wife, Jolan, are on a 24-city, seven-week tour of the United States, nearly all of it on the cuff. It's this way: Eugene and Jolan are Hungarian refugees, in this country only a few months after scurrying over the Austrian border disguised as potato-pickers, a jump ahead of Russian pursuers. To dramatize the contrast between the West and the Russian-dominated world, the American Hotel Association sponsored their tour. They'll carry very little cash. Practically all their hotel, traveling, eating and entertainment expenses will be on credit cards. The Sermelys, who live in Washington, D.C., are pictured in New York City at the start of their tour.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 6 (AP) — Stock market prices eased slightly early this afternoon after three straight sessions on the upside.

Key issues were off from fractions to around a point or so in moderate trading.

The backing-away from recent gains was a logical technical development, Wall Streeters said. The actual moving-out of Israeli forces from Egyptian territory capped the better feeling which has helped the market's attitude toward the Middle East recently. But cross-currents of business and economic news gave no further stimulus.

Layoffs by several manufacturers sounded a note of caution in the midst of some good pieces of corporate news.

Corporate bonds were mixed in quiet trading.

U. S. Government bonds were firm in quiet transactions.

Four Sources of Information for Dreamers of Retirement

BY BEULAH STOWE

The object of education, a high school teacher once said, is to teach the student where to find the answers.

Many adults within dreaming distance of retirement have never been to college, or even to high school. But these same men and women, beginning today, can take advantage of this important premise of education; they can learn to find the answers.

Here are four sources of information which will help you find the answers to these problems: how to start a small business at home, how to solve your personal legal and financial problems, how to find hobbies and avocations, how to understand your children's attitudes and behavior, how to decide where to retire, how to find fulfillment instead of emptiness in hours of leisure.

1. The public library: Do not be abashed by the hushed atmosphere and the clerical proficiency of the librarians and their mysterious system. Librarians are not there only to discuss the latest books with the best-seller readers, or the most obscure books with the intellectuals. They are there to be helpful to people. (And who isn't a "people"?) If you do not know how to find a book, ask. If you do not know how to use the card catalog, ask. If you still do not understand, ask again tomorrow. Andrew Carnegie meant this library for you; he did not give it to the intellectual snobs. On these bookshelves are books which can help you solve your every problem. You need only learn how to pry the answers loose from the printed page.

2. Colleges and universities in your state: Much specialized information is filed away in university libraries under the general title of "Theses for Advanced Degrees." Many universities offer special courses for older people, and extension school courses for state residents living beyond the range of the classroom.

3. The state government. Many state employment offices, which are connected with the U. S. employment system, maintain special sections to help older people get jobs. Every state is divided into two departments such as agriculture, mining, commerce, and education. Contact one of these offices at the state capitol for any help they can give you.

4. The federal government. The U. S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., has much valuable information on handicrafts, home products, and home businesses.

Q—"Can you tell me anything about Laguna Beach, Calif., or any of the other towns on the coast south of Los Angeles, as a retirement paradise?"—L.H.D.

A—Laguna Beach and a number of other towns on the southern coast are beautiful, but they are not necessarily paradise for retired people. There are more real estate offices per mile than in the normal town, and boom country means boom prices, not compatible with life on a pension. Laguna is a well-set jewel, between the changing hills and the blue ocean, and if you can afford jewels you will like it.

POLIO VICTIM FIGHTS FOR LIFE—The wife of polio victim Robert Thorne, 24, bites her lip as a doctor (right) in Memphis, Tenn., tells her the third iron lung in which her husband has been placed is not working. For eight hours after his own iron lung failed, doctors had to hand-pump oxygen to him. Thorne was transferred to three different iron lungs before one that worked was brought in from another hospital. Doctors would not know for a day or so how seriously the ordeal had injured Thorne. Mahoney Tells Women Ave Now Shifts From Lefts

Albany, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney says Democratic Gov. Harriman has been dominated by left-wing elements but is shifting "for political expediency."

Mahoney spoke yesterday to about 22 New York state members of the Women's National Republican Club. The women met to begin planning for the 1958 election.

Mahoney said Harriman temporarily was travelling "the middle of the road" in a bid for reelection next year.

The GOP leader said Harriman had been under "complete domination" by what Mahoney said was the left wing of the Democratic party. He said the wing included the Americans for Democratic Action and "pinkos."

The senator said the Republican opposition in the 1958 election would be "a ruthless machine that has none of the elemental decencies."

Shrieks and yells of the most appalling type were issuing from the little cottage, and quite a crowd had collected. Presently, clothed in the full majesty and dignity of the law, a policeman came striding on the scene.

Policeman (gruffly) — Now, then, what is all this about?

Small Boy—Please, sir, that's only my brother. He's crying because mama's eyesight ain't very good and she's deaf too.

A ghastly series of shrieks interrupted the explanation.

Officer (wiping away a furtive tear)—He must be a very feeling little fellow.

Small Boy—Yes, sir, he is. You see, ma's mending his trousers, and he's got them on.

The newly-hired psychologist personnel manager, after interviewing dozens of feminine applicants for the position as secretary to the boss, had narrowed the field down to three.

Manager — And now for the final test. How much is two and two? (to first applicant)

First Applicant (without hesitation)—Four.

The second girl when asked the same question replied,

Second Applicant—It could be 22.

Third Applicant—It might be four and it might be 22.

After the last girl left the psychologist turned to the boss.

Psychologist Manager—There, you have the perfect example of the scientific way of hiring people. The first girl said the obvious thing. The second showed imagination and the third was both practical and imaginative. Now which girl shall we hire?

Boss (unhesitatingly) — I'll take the blonde in the pink sweater.

The blonde was telling her friend about a strange man who got on at the same station with her and "hugged me and kissed me until he had to get off."

Friend — Didn't you say anything to him?

Blonde—I should say not. I never talk to strangers.

Predicted Uprising

Newsmen Told To Leave Cuba

Havana, March 6 (AP) — Two U. S. newsmen arrested twice in four days after they tried to interview rebel leader Fidel Castro Luz planned to leave for Florida today. They said they had been ordered out of Cuba.

Reporter George Prentice, 32, and photographer Tony Faletta, 35, were released last night after the U. S. Embassy intervened. The men were on leave from the Birmingham, Ala., News and were doing free-lance reporting for the National Broadcasting Co. (NBC).

The two men recently had sent articles to the Birmingham paper predicting an uprising in Cuba. Cuban authorities insisted there is no danger of a revolt and said Castro's rebel group is being hunted down in the Sierra Maestra mountains of southeast Cuba.

Cuban officials have been considerably irked by a recent series of New York Times articles reporting an interview with Castro by correspondent Herbert L. Matthews.

Prentice said they were first arrested by government troops Friday night in the Sierra Maestras, "about two days march from where we hoped to make contact with Castro."

Hunting for Tourists

Acapulco, Mexico, March 6 (AP) —Police today intensified their search around this resort city for two wealthy middle-aged U. S. tourists missing for two weeks. Joseph A. Michel, New York attorney, and Mrs. Edith Hallock, Brooklyn widow, disappeared Feb. 20. Police Chief Gonzalo Gonzalez said a picture taken of the couple aboard a local boat Feb. 19 had been found. He said copies would be shown at all transport terminals, to all local taxi drivers and to personnel of all hotels in a further effort to find some trace of the pair. Gonzalez said he doubted the couple had been attacked by thieves. He reported they were wearing sports clothes and no jewelry of any great value when last seen lunching at their hotel.

Mills Count on More Sales in Steel Line

New York, March 6 (AP)—Steel mills are counting on an upturn in sales of some products during the next three months, the Iron Age, national metalworking weekly, said today.

Meanwhile, it said, the struggle for available business in sheets, strip and other products in good supply is becoming more intense.

"Where they can," said Iron Age, "mills are tying in sales of easier products with those in stronger demand. The tie-in sale gives the advantage to those mills producing a wide variety of products."

Discussing the prospect of an upturn in some products, the weekly said "two of the big three automakers have stepped up their April steel orders, possibly with the intent of increasing auto output the following month."

It reported that "steel users everywhere apparently are taking their inventory cue from the auto and appliance makers, and are going overboard on inventory cutbacks."

"But," said the weekly, "they may be overlooking one important point: automotive steel inventories have been cut to rock bottom."

Republican Club Hears Address Of Mayor Stang

Woodstock, March 6—A capacity crowd gathered at Deanie's last Saturday night at the annual Republican Club dinner and dance to hear Mayor Frederick H. Stang of Kingston. Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Woodstock was also present.

Mayor Stang congratulated the Woodstock Club on the notable increase in membership since the club was formed two years ago. He noted that if the club grew to any greater extent, "we will have to lend you the Kingston Municipal Auditorium for your meetings."

He explained that 25 years ago he made his first speech in Woodstock, and at that time the one person present at Saturday's meeting, who had heard him at that time was Albert Cashdollar who is now superintendent of highways.

Discussing the science of government, Mayor Stang referred to the dedicated men of brains and vision who created the Constitution of the United States, and to all of the people who feel it their sacred duty to get out and vote. "All cannot vote, but they should join in activities at election time," he said.

Referring to present problems he spoke of the arterial route planned for Kingston, he said that we must look ahead 20 years and must build for the future.

"It is nice," he concluded, "to get together for a dinner and a dance once a year, but interest must be sustained throughout the year."

Frank Antenucci, president of the Woodstock Republican Club, presided at the meeting and introduced the new officers and directors of the club.

Seated at the speaker's table were: Mr. Antenucci, Mayor and Mrs. Stang, Assemblyman Wilson, Supervisor and Mrs. Joseph Fitzsimmons, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Shultis, Everand Short, Mr. and Mrs. Birge Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thaisz, Mr. and Mrs. James Kinns, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Schwarz, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Wagenen.

Want Fifteen-Minute Dish? Try Canned Corn, Mushrooms

MUSHROOM CROWNS line center of meatless casserole of canned corn, canned mushrooms, cracker crumbs and cheese.

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor

From can opener to dinner table in 15 minutes—that's the life cycle of a hearty meatless main dish made of canned corn and canned mushrooms.

Of course, the mushrooms and corn come from your pantry shelf. If you want to "de luxe" this meatless dinner a bit further, open your freezer and take out South African rock lobster tails to place in the broiler.

This springtime dinner is quick, easy and very good to eat. So is the corn souffle that follows it.

Corn Mushroom Scallop
(Makes 6 servings)

One No. 303 can whole kernel corn, drained; 1 4-ounce can button or sliced mushrooms, drained; salt; pepper; marjoram; rosemary; 2 tablespoons light cream; 1 cup crushed crackers; ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese; 1 tablespoon butter or margarine.

In greased 10x6x2-inch casserole, place half of corn. Then add layer of mushrooms, reserving several for garnish.

Add remaining corn. Sprinkle with pinch each of salt, pepper, marjoram and rosemary; add cream.

Combine cracker crumbs and cheese. Sprinkle over top; dot with butter.

Bake at 375 degrees F. for 15 minutes or until bubbly.

Corn Souffle
(Makes 4-6 servings)

One-quarter cup butter or margarine; ¼ cup flour; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 six-ounce can evaporated milk (⅔ cup), undiluted; 1 No. 303 can (1 pound) cream-style corn; ½ cup chopped green pepper; 1 teaspoon aromatic bitters; 1 cup diced sharp cheddar cheese; 4 eggs, separated.

Melt butter in top of double boiler. Add flour and salt; mix well.

Gradually stir in milk and cook, stirring constantly until sauce is thick.

Add corn, green pepper, bitters and cheese; stir until cheese melts; remove from heat.

Beat egg yolks until light and cream colored; gradually pour yolks into sauce, stirring constantly.

Clean beater; beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Carefully fold sauce into egg whites.

Pour mixture into well-buttered two-quart casserole. Bake at 475 degrees F. for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 400 degrees and bake 30 minutes.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Broiled rock lobster tails; corn-mushroom scallop, mixed greens and sweet onion salad, crisp rolls, butter or margarine, plum pie, coffee, tea, milk.

Rugged Swede Spends Five Years Building His Own Road

Longlac, Ont., March 6 (AP)—Sixty-five miles east of here in the dense forest of northern Ontario a road branches off Highway No. 11. It runs for 18 miles to the frontier community of Pagwa and residents call it "Hugo's Road."

That's because one man—rugged 51-year-old Hugo Ericson—almost single-handed spent five years hewing, clearing and grading through rugged terrain to build it.

The road averages a width of 20 feet, includes 3 bridges and 33 culverts, all hand constructed.

Got Idea in 1950

Ericson, born in Sweden, migrated to Canada at 19 and became a sectionhand at Emerson, Ont. In 1934 he bought the fur trading post at Pagwa, on the scenic Pagwachuan river, 76 miles west of Hearts.

"It was in 1950 that the wife and I thought how nice it would be to own a car," Ericson said, "but it would have been no use garaged at Hearts and with no road to Pagwa. I started to wonder about the possibilities of a road to the highway."

At his request, an Ontario government surveyor mapped a proposed route, but Ericson said it was "as crooked as a dog's hind leg."

Ericson's idea was to cut through 18 miles of timber and connect with an old tote road. That was the start of five years of hardship and frustration.

Real Rough Territory

The route contains stands of white spruce—some 225 feet tall—thickly knit with poplar birch and dense undergrowth. The terrain is pock-marked with gullies and small lakes.

With the help of some white settlers, Ericson blazed the trail. The first year a distance of three miles was slashed. Trees were downed by bucksaw and he used his own tractor to fill and grade ravines.

"A big setback was the fact that I had to walk back and forth, and the farther along we got, the longer that took," he said. "I used to work about 12 hours a day."

Weather Barriers

Winter halted operations and the following spring rain hampered work, washed out completed sections. Sympathtic construction workers donated a 22-ton bulldozer occasionally to help Ericson get through heavier timber. With the approach of the second winter 3½ miles had been cleared but the timber ahead was bigger.

Ericson made a good start in the spring of 1952 with a donated tractor. Then began the rainiest season he remembers. Parts of the road were washed away.

Worked at 40 Below

In 1953 he bought a small truck which helped speed him and supplies between his home and the end of the line. Four tractors of various sizes and a one-yard scraper had become available and Ericson planned an all-winter operation.

Working in temperatures that sometimes reached 40 below zero, he pushed the road through to link with the tote road. The last tree was felled March 23, 1954.

"You could call the next day one of my happiest during the five years," he says. "We all drove down to Hearst for groceries in my truck and over my road."

Education Head To Get $85,000 Home

Albany, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—New York state will provide an official residence for its commissioner of education.

An $85,000 appropriation for the home was contained in a 1957-58 budget bill passed yesterday by the legislature.

The board of regents had recommended the expenditure and Gov. Harriman proposed it in his budget.

Dr. James E. Allen Jr. is the incumbent commissioner of education.

There was scattered Republican opposition in the assembly to the residence appropriation. The bill containing it passed 144-1, however. J. Eugene Goddard, Rochester Republican, dissented.

Wilson Van Duzer, veteran Orange county Republican, asked: "How do I look telling retired teachers on $40-a-month pensions that the state can't afford to give them more. . ?"

Republican majority leader Joseph Carlino said it was necessary to provide facilities and salaries to attract the best qualified to the post of education commissioner.

Edwyn E. Mason of Delaware county said Allen was "a gentleman and a scholar" but "I also respect the plight of the taxpayer. What are we to say to our constituents when we go home?"

The bill containing the residence appropriation also provided for increasing the commissioner's salary from $22,500 to $24,000 a year.

The budget bills were sent to Gov. Harriman.

Would Televise Council

New York, March 6 (AP)—Representatives of three major television networks appealed to the City Council Tuesday for permission to televise city council proceedings. Three of the four speakers were news commentators. They urged the council, which was sitting as a committee of the whole to remove the ban on the use of TV equipment at council hearings. The hearing was the result of network complaints that they were not allowed to cover the Councilman Hugh Quinn conflict of interest hearing.

End of the Blues About Due In National Economy Picture

New York, March 6 (AP)—A third force of calmer appraisal is beginning to appear today in the battle between the optimists and the pessimists in the business world.

Optimists on the future of business ruled the field in December with predictions of better days ahead.

Pessimists grew loud in the last two months with warnings that the economy was in for a cyclical adjustment. Stock market tremors resulted from these fears.

Blues Begin to Subside

With the approach of spring the usual end-of-the-winter blues may subside. The middle of the road observers are beginning now to point out that the good and bad factors in the economy are pretty well balancing each other.

Even fears of further inflation are moderating in some quarters. Dr. Paul W. McCraken, recently named members of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, thinks pressure on wages and prices will be less intensive this year than last, when the cost of living rose three per cent. A runaway price spiral is out of the picture now, he holds.

Still rising operational costs and shrinking profit margins will continue to pinch many companies, however. Sales outlooks in some industries indicate less than capacity production. Cutbacks in work weeks are expected in others.

Brighter Than Ever

But, at the same time, the outlook in other industries is brighter than ever. Some Wall Street investment advisers say they look for gains this year in the profits of some companies, and especially of the larger companies in those industries. Cited are oil, farm equipment, office equipment, and steel, among others.

Moderates base their views on signs that consumers will go on spending about as much—maybe a little more—this year. Business spending to build up inventories may slow down a little and this would hurt the industries supplying the ones who cut back.

Hope for Free Spending

But the consumer is expected to go on spending—if not on the things he bought so freely in 1955, on the things he showed preference for in 1956.

Martin Gainsbrugh, chief economist for the National Industrial Conference Board, believes consumers will spend heavily in coming months for nondurable goods (like clothing, food and gasoline), for services and for recreation.

As far as the economy as a whole is concerned, this spending should offset a decline in purchases of durable goods (like autos and home appliances) from the peak hit in 1955.

Any further drop in home building could be offset by high spending on commercial, industrial and public construction. Thus, building material firms whose products go primarily into homes might suffer, while those whose products are used in office buildings might prosper.

Signs that planning for future expansion of industry may be slackening would still leave a high total already earmarked for spending this year.

Gainsbrugh sights no dampening of Western European demand for U. S. goods.

And this year will see bigger spending by federal, state and local governments.

Adding it all up, the President's Council of Economic Advisers says the total dollar volume of goods and services could rise from 1956's 412 billion dollars to 430 billion this year.

Roosevelt, Others Can't Incorporate

New York, March 6 (AP)—John Roosevelt, son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and a group of Republicans Tuesday were denied court permission to incorporate "The Metropolitan Republican Club."

Justice Henry Clay Greenberg, in Supreme Court, said in denying the application, that he was not attempting to curtail free political expression, but that the group might accomplish its aim through existing party machinery.

Thomas J. Curran, New York county GOP chairman, had withheld this consent to the incorporation of the new club because of "danger of confusion to the public."

Justice Greenberg pointed out that a proposed corporation for political purposes required consent of the party's county committee, and that he regarded Curran's action as "not unreasonable."

Kingston has been allocated $2,090.50 in state aid for a recreation project for a 12-month period, the New York State Youth Commission announced.

An application for state aid submitted by Mayor Frederick H. Stang indicates that the city will spend a total of $91,754 during the year to provide a recreation program. Activities to be provided include baseball basketball, dances and skating.

Facilities to be used include Kingman Park skating rink, Strubel's skating rink, Municipal Stadium, seven city parks, Municipal Beach and St. Mary's, No. 2 and George Washington School play areas and gymnasiums.

Kingston is one of more than 1,000 municipalities that have participated in the State Youth Commission's annual $6,000,000 program. This is the 12th year that the city and the state have joined in a program to provide wholesome recreation activities for the youth of the community.

House Approval Indicated Of Senate's Mid-East Bill

Washington, March 6 (AP)—House Democratic leader McCormack of Massachusetts said today he will ask the House tomorrow to accept the Senate version of the Middle East resolution.

Should the House agree to McCormack's proposal, the measure would go immediately to the White House without need for a Senate-House conference to adjust differences.

Not Major Nature

McCormack told newsmen he believed the House would agree to his proposal since the Senate changes in the original House-passed measure were not of a major nature.

Simultaneously with McCormack's announcement, the White House described President Eisenhower as "very pleased" by the size of the bipartisan vote—72-19—by which the resolution went through the Senate last night.

At the same time there was a broad indication that the Senate's rewritten version of the Eisenhower plan is acceptable to the President.

The resolution, already passed in another form by the House, serves notice on the Kremlin that America will fight, if need be, against Communist attack in the strategic Middle East, and gives the President more leeway in use of up to 200 million dollars in military-economic aid for that area between now and July 1.

Eisenhower Pleased

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, was asked about Eisenhower's reaction at a news conference.

"The President was very pleased about the bipartisan vote in the Senate on the resolution," Hagerty said.

"He was also particularly pleased by the large majority the resolution received."

Withdrawal Starts

"the government's withdrawal from its Gaza and Aqaba decision" was defeated 85-24.

Ben-Gurion had reiterated that Israel rejects the Egyptian-Israeli armistice of 1949 as the basis for the future status of the Gaza Strip. He held the armistice is null and void on the ground Egypt violated it by continued belligerency.

The premier referred to a statement to the United Nations last Friday by U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge which was a factor in Israeli hesitation last weekend over whether to go through with the withdrawal.

Hits Egypt's Control

Lodge had agreed with the previously stated view of UN Secretary Dag Hammarskjold that the future of the Gaza Strip must be "worked out within the framework of the armistice agreement." The Israelis protested that this would mean any UN administration there would be technically under Egyptian control.

The decision to go through with the withdrawal came only after fresh diplomatic consultations in Washington and Ben-Gurion's receipt of a letter from President Eisenhower giving U. S. backing to Israel's hopes for peace in the Middle East.

There was a promise of a quick restoration of the Iraqi Petroleum Co., pipelines across Syria which Syrians put out of action in reprisal for the Israeli-French-British invasion of Egypt last November. Pumping stations were blown up.

The company announced Syria officially agreed to allow it to make repairs and resume pumping of oil from Iraqi fields to the Mediterranean.

The Gaza Strip was under Egyptian control from 1949 until Israel seized the 26-mile-long district last November. Most of the population consists of Palestinean refugees who are fed by the United Nations.

Looting Is Blamed

At one point today Israeli officials said they had suspended the withdrawal because Arabs were looting Gaza stores of the UN Works and Relief Agency. The complaint against "Egyptian administrators" developed later.

(In Washington, a State Department spokesman said he knew nothing about the suspension of troop movements. He referred all inquiries about the question of Egyptian administrators to the United Nations, saying "this is a matter which the UN is handling."

(Privately some informants said they understood that the United Nations had expected to use personnel of the emergency force itself for administrative purposes in the initial stage of UNEF occupation.)

Damage Is Put At $80,000 in Fire at Liberty

Liberty, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—An early morning fire today destroyed Cory's Bar and Grill, a two story structure in the downtown section of Liberty.

One fireman, Kenneth Shelly of Liberty, suffered head injuries and a broken leg when he was struck by a beam when a wall collapsed. He was taken to Maimonides Hospital.

Firemen from Liberty, Livingston Manor and Loch Sheldrake fought the fire four hours and kept it from spreading to other buildings. The cause of the fire was not determined immediately. The loss was estimated at $80,000.

Federal Price

ment of Agriculture. About 50 persons attended today's session in contrast to about 200 at the opening session yesterday.

60,000 Producers, He Says

The league spokesman estimated about 60,000 farmers produce milk in the areas.

Benham said, "we are convinced that any regulation of milk marketing and milk pricing must be written with the recognition that here is one market and one production area for that market."

He said there would be no permanent solution to the dairymen's problems until they all market their milk under the same regulation to provide "equitable treatment of neighboring dairymen."

The metropolitan New York area, which comprises New York, Suffolk, Nassau and Westchester counties, is now under a federal milk order. A total of 84 hearings were held last year on a proposal to write a separate order for New Jersey. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson ordered hearings on the writing a single comprehensive order which would include northern New Jersey and certain upstate cities in the New York milkshed area.

Advocate Single Order

Most major dairy farm groups advocate a single marketing order in the belief that it would result in an immediate increase in the price paid to dairy farmers. An exception is the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, Inc., which has 11,000 members.

Eastern believes a separate order should be drawn up for New Jersey. It contends such a setup would be more beneficial.

Yesterday, upstate New York farmers urged quick action and spoke of their "desperate" situation. Hyde, however, said they would have to appeal directly to Secretary of Agriculture Benson. Hyde insisted he would have to conduct the hearing along rules laid down by higher officials. No action can be taken on a possible price increase until the hearings were concluded, he said.

Some farmers complained of the delay and said violence might flare if no quick means was found to increase the price of milk.

Traffic Officer

could not do traffic duty without the danger of being struck by a vehicle. The claim also indicated the possibility of the officer's injuries being permanent.

The claim filed by Officer Floyd M. Krom for his son, Bruce Edward Krom, and himself lists $10,000 for injuries to the boy, and $2,500 for the father for medical and incidental expenses.

Bruce Krom suffered the leg fracture while in the lot in the area of Chambers, Meadow, Pierpont and Ann streets, which is city-owned. It is claimed that loose rubble was negligently left in the lot and the boy fell after losing footing.

Mrs. Lottie Post, of 672 Broadway, served notice that she had suffered injuries in a fall last Jan. 30 on O'Neil street where a cross walk had not been sanded. It and a bill for $21 filed by Thomas J. Deegan, of 53 Emerson street, for damage to his car caused by a city owned sign on Foxhall avenue, were referred to the corporation counsel.

Driver Pays $100 On Speeding Charge

Lawrence J. Saunders, 20, of Box 220, Trailer Haven, Kingston, paid a fine of $100 on a speeding charge at a hearing Tuesday night before Justice of the Peace Francis E. Palen Jr., of Port Ewen.

Saunders was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Thomas Mayone and Michael Stuper of the Ulster county sheriff's office Sunday morning after a chase on Route 9W through Port Ewen.

A second charge of driving while intoxicated was dropped.

According to the sheriff's office, Saunders was proceeding north on 9W when he attempted to turn off into Salem street, missed the turn and hit three white poles.

Farmer Drowns In Milk Trough

Palatine Bridge, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—A farmer was drowned today when he fell into a milk-cooling trough in his farm near this Montgomery county community.

Fort Plains police theorized that Herman H. Fredericks, 75, had been pushing against the door of the milk shed in which the trough was placed. They guessed that the door had been stuck and when it gave way, Fredericks pitched headlong into the trough.

Fredericks was found this morning by his son Herman after the two had finished milking the cows.

Dr. Raymond Wytrwal, a Montgomery county coroner, issued a verdict of accidental death by drowning.

Police Hint Early Break In Slaying of Jersey Girl

Mahwah, N. J., March 6 (AP)—Bergen County Prosecutor Guy W. Calissi announced today police have a definite suspect in the rock slaying of 15-year-old Victoria Zielinski.

Calissi said shortly after 11 a. m. that detectives expect to break the murder case "in a very short time." The suspect, he said, is one of the persons police have questioned. No identification was given.

Earlier, a pair of khaki men's pants found today became the latest in a series of possible clues which authorities hope will lead them to the slayer of the pretty high school girl.

Calissi said the trousers were found in adjacent Ramsey and were taken to his office in Hackensack to be checked for possible blood stains. He gave no other details.

Victoria was bludgeoned to death with rocks Monday night in a deserted gravel pit here, within a mile of her home in Ramsey.

Other clues turned up so far include impressions of car tracks near the scene, a man's size nine shoe print and a few strands of hair found in the slain girl's gloves.

Weary police worked through the night and into this morning questioning more than 25 school friends of Victoria. They termed the crime the work of a sadist but said they had no solid leads yet.

Calissi said the young honor student may have been picked up in a car by a friend while walking home from a homework session at a schoolmate's house.

She was lying face down in a gravel pit by a lovers lane off Fardale Ave. Her head had been crushed down the middle by a rock and her sweater, still covering her arms, had been ripped from the rest of her body.

Priest Dies in Church

San Francisco, March 6 (AP)—The Very Rev. Fr. Paul Kalinovich collapsed and died last night as he walked up the aisle of the Holy Virgin Eastern Orthodox Cathedral to commence pre-Lenten services. Ave Claims HST Backed Him on Speech Handling

New York, March 6 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman says that when he was secretary of commerce he ignored an order by his boss, former President Harry S. Truman, to clear all speeches on foreign policy with the State Department.

Harriman says that Truman told him later that he was "dead right" in ignoring the order.

The governor quoted Truman as saying: "I never liked that rule myself."

Harriman disclosed the incident yesterday in a talk at a television program clinic sponsored by Broadcast Music Inc., at which he was guest of honor.

As secretary of commerce, Harriman succeeded Henry A. Wallace who resigned amid discord after referring in a speech to relations with Russia which displeased the State Department.

Truman later issued the order about clearing speeches with the State Department.

Report Is Given On Crop Output At County Farm

At the time the Ulster County Home Farm at New Paltz was inspected last September 19, the inspector, Farm Adviser Lloyd C. Morris of the State Institution Farms Bureau, Department of Agriculture and Markets, found it "Neat and clean around the farm" and the crops and stock in good condition.

In a report submitted to the Board of Supervisors and County Commissioner of Public Welfare Edward E. Murray under date of February 28, Robert J. Race, director of the bureau, reports "a considerable amount of grain produced for home use and crops averaged very good this year."

Commenting on the livestock on the farm the report says there was "no milking dairy. They have a heard of cattle which supplies the beef for the institution. Pasteurized milk is purchased. Mr. Morris reports a very good herd of Yorkshire swine. The are well kept and well cared for. Swine are fed on home grown grains. The poultry flock looked healthy and in good production. The garden is well cared for, and their excess vegetables are canned at Wallkill Prison. Potatoes looked as though they would produce more per acreage than they did last year," the report states.

Vegetables canned at the prison are returned to the Home and used in the institution and at the infirmary.

The inspector reports a "field chopper and a combine for the institution" should possibly be purchased.

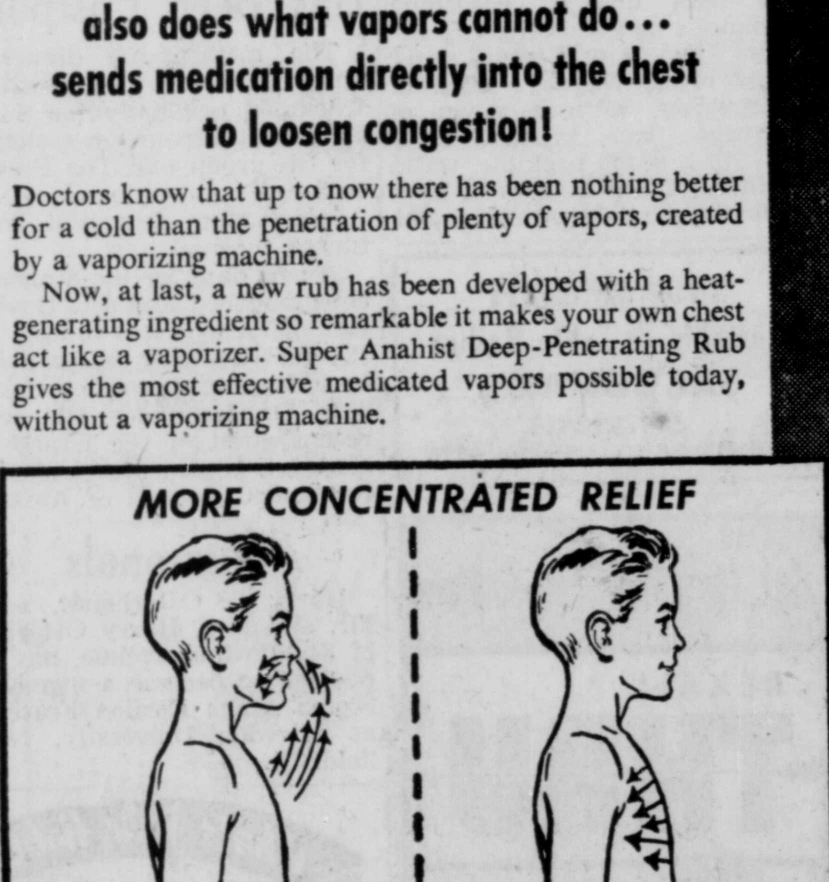
NEW DISCOVERY FOR DEEP-SEATED CHEST COLDS AND COUGHS—

Speeds heat to cold-congested areas ...makes your own chest a vaporizer!

New Super Anahist Deep-Penetrating Rub also does what vapors cannot do... sends medication directly into the chest to loosen congestion!

Doctors know that up to now there has been nothing better for a cold than the penetration of plenty of vapors, created by a vaporizing machine.

Now, at last, a new rub has been developed with a heat-generating ingredient so remarkable it makes your own chest act like a vaporizer. Super Anahist Deep-Penetrating Rub gives the most effective medicated vapors possible today, without a vaporizing machine.



MORE CONCENTRATED RELIEF

IN THE VAPOR
Super Anahist Rub's rich, highly medicated vapors rise off the chest—pour into mouth, nose and throat with soothing warmth—work deep down to chest.

IN THE RUB
At the same time, Super Anahist Rub does its work inside the chest—creates heat—speeds the flow of rich, red blood to break up congestion.

And Super Anahist Rub does what vapors cannot do. It has a direct chest-penetrating action to loosen congestion.

Thus you get wonderful relief two ways—vapors pour into your nose, mouth, throat and chest, spreading relieving medication throughout the upper respiratory system and down into the chest. At the same time, Super Anahist Rub's penetrating action goes into the chest and bronchial tract. Chest congestion loosens, stuffed-up head and nasal passages grow clearer, aches and pains subside.

Thousands of mothers have told us of the wonderful relief they got with Super Anahist Rub. It is stainless, clear, easy to apply. Get Super Anahist Rub!

BOY AND GIRL ALONE IN HOUSE

The following question is asked by a young girl: "Was it wrong for me to have a boy I know well come to the house to help me with my homework when my parents were out? "It was very early in the evening, but when Mother and Dad came home and found him there they were furious with me and said that it was very improper to have a boy come into the house when they were not home. We've been best friends for years and our families have known each other a long time. Will you please tell me if there was any impropriety in this situation?"

Considering the fact that you know him very well and your families know each other and the hour was early. I see no impropriety in what you did. If he was someone you knew very slightly and the hour was late that would be another story.

Piling Vegetables on Fork

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible, and correct, to cut a piece of meat, fork held in left hand tines down, and place a small amount of vegetables (mashed potatoes and peas) on top of the piece of meat on the back of the fork by means of the knife held in the right hand.

Answer: No, I cannot approve of piling vegetables on the fork. Vegetables are properly eaten separately with the fork held in the right hand. A very small amount of potatoes or sauce may be put on the back of the fork with meat when it is eaten with the left hand.

Bringing Back Presents for Friends

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are going to Europe soon. There will be friends and relatives to bid us good-bye at the ship and no doubt we shall receive gifts from some of them. Will it be required of us to bring back gifts to them?

Answer: If you can, and would like to, pick up souvenirs of some kind they would be appreciated, but really not exacted.

The Mature Parent

Helpful Spirit More Vital Than Any Particular Chore

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

When this school year began, it was with the rule that 11-year-old Joyce make her bed every morning.

She resists it. Joyce "makes" her bed by pulling her coverlet up over her rumpled bedclothes, leaving an untidy valance of sheet and blanket drooping from under it.

Her mother, figuring the resistance was due to school-morning haste, tried waking her half an hour earlier. But the extra time has not produced a neatly made bed. It's just enabled Joyce to say, "I was too sleepy to make it right" instead of saying, "I didn't have time to make it right."

The tension and criticism involved with Joyce's resistance to this rule is making all cooperation between her and her mother increasingly difficult.

To reduce it, it may be wise to repeal the bed-making rule and say Joyce, "In what other way do you want to contribute to your home?"

Sometimes a child will resent a rule we have made so much that it becomes too costly to try and enforce it.

Then, like the Congress that repealed the prohibition law, we do well to withdraw our demand for the specific obedience—and ask for a cooperation the child can more willingly give.

Otherwise, our flexibility can set up chronic resistance. Just as the law enforcement agencies of the prohibition era became involved in an unending, undeclared, expensive war with the American people, we get caught in such war for the child's submission. In the end, nobody is disciplined.

What makes it hard for us to compromise with a child's resistance to some chore like making his bed or hanging up his coat is our over-evaluation of these actions.

They are not of first value. The first value is the development of his spirit of helpfulness.

Once this is clearly seen, flexibility and confidence return to our treatment of him. We no longer limit Joyce's spirit of helpfulness to the making of her bed, but see that it can express itself through a wide variety of cooperative actions.

So, freed from the belief that we must force bed-making from Joyce, we find it the simplest thing in the world to say, "All right, darling, I'll make your bed for you. In return will you promise to scour my refrigerator thoroughly every Saturday morning?"

Council for . . .

tures noted that "One of the principal purposes of a city plan is to guide the public expenditure in a progressive program of creating a better, more stable and efficient community for all."

Ryan's report noted that the finance committee had considered for some time the proposal of Edwin S. Voorhis & Son, Inc., to provide planning service for the city," and had not arrived at a decision.

A meeting on area planning with other communities also seemed to be inconclusive. He noted however, that the town of Ulster had taken definite steps toward planning, and he felt that "if we are to take advantage of the terms proposed for our city, we had better act quickly."

Ryan Gives Outline

Ryan held that the proposal was comprehensive and would include: preliminary planning analysis, land use inventory, and future land use plan; circulation, traffic and parking plan; utility plan; community facility plan, and recommended long-range capital improvement plan."

A chief problem in the council, Ryan said, was the inability of anyone "in our city government" to come up with long-range plans for any of the many problems which face our city.

Ryan held that a long-range capital improvement plan would "insure a more efficient spending of the money raised by taxation. This efficiency should be reflected in lower tax rates over a period of time." The study would take an estimated two years. Not to accept it he felt would amount to being "penny wise and pound foolish." In conclusion he moved that the finance committee be discharged of its duties as to planning.

Cites Eight Objectives

Alderman Keyser outlined eight specific objectives of a comprehensive city plan, and on capital expenditures said further: "The capital budget problem involves placing the most important and most needed proposed public works projects first."

It eliminates duplication in expenditures and makes sure that improvements are in scale with present and future requirements. A comprehensive plan, he held, would provide the basis for solution of the capital budget problem.

As to concern for increases in public expenditures, he said, "it has been shown by other communities with past experience in planning, that this will not be the case." City planning, "properly followed and administered," he held, will prevent inadvisable and wasteful expenditures on useless projects, and produce the greatest benefit from what the city must normally spend, if it is to continue to survive as a healthy organization."

Alderman Keyser, before adjournment, proposed that Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy draft the required legal form of a bond measure in conjunction with the city planning proposal for a vote at the next regular session. Schwenk directed this to the attention of Abernethy, who was at the session.

Two more votes would be required for the city planning proposal for final adoption next month. The measure would require authorization of the $24,750 by bond issue before the planning proposal as presented could be put into effect.

Leaves It to Mayor

Alderman-at-large Schwenk, in dismissing the charter committee composed of himself and aldermen McArdle and Ryan, advised that future action on a charter-revision proposal revert back to Mayor Stang, who can name another committee, if he sees fit to do so.

The council, last month, voted to table a recommendation that Attorney Hubert A. Richter and Eugene D. DeDea, of the Kingston Civic Association be made members of the charter-revision committee.

To Study Tax Proposal

Ryan's resolution asking for payment of taxes in four installments was referred to the laws and rules committee. It noted that since the new assessment pattern "has caused the taxes of many of our citizens to be materially increased," and has caused hardship "in many cases due to the necessity of paying at least one half of the total by March 18, and the balance by May 30," the collecting periods should be changed.

He asked that the schedule be changed, "and quarterly installments instituted."

Alderman Radel attempted to get a vote on his proposal to tape record the council sessions, but Alderman-at-Large Schwenk ruled that it should go to the finance committee first. Radel, however, felt that "no question of finance would be involved," because it was expected that a local radio station would do the recording.

The resolution asking that the FCC, leave station WRGB as it now operates on Channel 6, and not make it UHF, as proposed, noted that many persons cannot get any other TV reception in the city.

Several aldermen had signed the resolution before it was presented and Radel proposed that all aldermen sign it. Ryan proposed that a copy be sent to the area's representative in Congress.

The expression, "a mare's nest,' 'is from the Anglo-Saxon "mara," meaning "an evil spirit, or goblin.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks

without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be remoistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONAID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAID's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONAID's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

Assembly Passes Aiding Parents of College Students

Albany, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—Legislation designed to lighten the state income-tax burden of parents of college students won final approval in the Assembly today.

The Republican "program" bill, passed unanimously and sent to the governor, would double the special $400 exemption allowed parents for each child over age 18 in college. The Senate approved it yesterday.

The sponsors are Assemblyman Lucio F. Russo and Sen. John J. Marchi, Staten Island Republicans.

Another would tighten restrictions against "tie-in sales" that force newstand dealers to handle sexy magazines in order to get quality publications.

The third would broaden an existing law in order to permit district attorneys to bring actions to halt the sale of obscene materials.

The report asserted that New York citizens would be "amazed" to learn of the variety and quantity of pornographic material circulating in the state. Arrests for selling outright pornography were made in 26 of the 57 counties outside New York city last year, it reported.

Improper Atmosphere

San Diego, Calif. (AP) — The board of supervisors authorized a $410 increase to approved remodeling costs for the interior of the county probation's new offices. The increase will pay for five coats of paint to cover murals considered inappropriate for a probation department. The building once housed a nightclub and dance hall.

Link Acid Case To Bribe Charge

Conroe, Tex., March 6 (AP)—An unidentified assailant last night splashed acid in the face of a prominent chiropractor who testified in an investigation of a bribe charge against state Rep. James E. Cox of Conroe.

Dr. E. E. McMeans Jr., 32, his left eye patched, said he had no idea who tossed the bottle of acid at him. He said he knew of no direct connection it could have with the Cox case. But Cox said he thought it was connected with the investigation of the bribe charge.

Ranger is Assigned

Texas Ranger Johnnie Klevenhagen, assigned to the case, said "if the acid had hit him in the face full force, he would not have had much face left. He got only the splatter."

McMeans' left eye was practically closed when he lifted the patch for newsmen. The lower eyelid was a bluish color. He said there was a "little pain."

McMeans said he was leaving his clinic when the buzzer on the back door sounded. He said when he opened the door, someone threw a jar of liquid at him.

'Felt Like Fire'

". . . It felt like fire hitting me," he said. "I ran into the flower shop next door. They have a sink with a faucet high in the air. "I turned the faucet on full force. I believe that is what saved me from permanent injury."

Klevenhagen said Florist Floyd Steward, 46, told him when McMeans ran in his shop, acid was still bubbling on his face.

McMeans, a boy scout leader and church deacon in this southeast Texas town, said he could see "some" through the damaged eye, "but it is very blurred."

"It may be the effects of the medication," however, he said.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U. S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

In Russia, no one is a shareowner. Except for personal belongings and a few one-man businesses, as a shoe cobbler on a garden plot, the government owns everything, and the people —nothing.

The Bolsheviks picture capitalism as a collection of fat industrialists, who wear dollar-sign suits and smoke huge cigars as their wage slaves toil for them.

MR. HUTTON

If that were a true picture of American capitalism, I'd be agin it.

But it isn't. The finest revolution the world has ever known is taking place right here in the U.S.A. It is the rapidly growing number of capitalists. You can't cross a street anywhere without meeting one, either big or little.

Wealth is more widely spread among our people than it has ever been anywhere, any time.

The President of the New York Stock Exchange says that the number of shareowners of American businesses has grown by one-third in the past four years.

They now total 8,630,000 in 4,600 publicly-owned companies, worth 350,000,000,000 $'s. That's billions and bigger than the National debt.

This, however, represents those who hold shares in their own names. But 100,000,000 Americans are indirect owners through life insurance, savings banks, pension funds, etc.

Neighbor, this spread of the ownership of American business is bound to grow, if protected from Socialism, which is deodorized Communism.

Partner Plumbs Bidder's Stew

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One of the essentials of winning bridge is to be able to put yourself in your partner's place and visualize the problems that may be confronting him. The following hand bid by Captain Harold R. Fleck, USNR (Retired) of Tucson, Ariz., and Captain Wesley A. Wright, USN at the Yokosuka Naval Base, Japan, illustrates this point.

Hal Fleck's opening spade bid was minimum in high cards but when Ham Wright responded with two diamonds Hal could find only one satisfactory rebid. In spite of holding only 12 points in high cards he raised to three diamonds.

Now Ham had a real problem. He had a tremendous hand but he did not hold an ace. He wanted to bid four-no-trump but there was a fly in the ointment.

His partner did not have to hold three aces. With two aces, the response to his four no-trump bid would be five hearts and they would be overboard.

A particularly bad fate for two Navy captains.

A heart or club bid might be taken to show the ace rather than the king and queen. Captain Wright decided on the simple bid of five diamonds.

Now Captain Fleck did what I mentioned at the start of the article. He put himself in his partner's place. Duplicating his partner's reasoning, he decided his partner wanted him to bid the slam if he held three aces and since he did he went ahead and bid it.

There would have been no trouble making the slam in any event but West made things easy by opening the ace of hearts.

Junior Sleuth

Toledo, Ohio (AP)—Donald Mabus, 12, is proving quite a help to the sheriff. On his way home from a nice skating pond here, he spotted a safe in a ditch. He told his father, who notified the sheriff. Investigating, deputies found a sledge hammer apparently used to burglarize the safe. Almost in the same spot on May 4, 1955, Donald found $629 worth of postage stamps and 1,676 blank money orders stolen from a nearby branch post office.

Saugerties Takes UCAL Flag; Newburgh is DUSO Winner

Kerin, Zeilman Spark Easy Win In Title Playoff

Rondout Valley Loses Crown at Onteora Gym

Saugerties High parlayed the precisioned shooting of 6-7 center Austin Kerin and lightning fast forward Billy Zeilman with an iron-clad zone defense to dethrone Rondout Valley Central as UCAL basketball champions, 67-44, last night before a SRO crowd of more than 1,000 at Onteora's gym.

After a year of patient and hopeful waiting, Bud Smith's lads gained revenge for last year's title whipping with increditable ease. They led almost from the outset and had the crown slated away as early as the first half. By the middle of the third period it was 'no contest.'

Kerin, sporting an undefensible turn-shot from close in, poured in 25 points and Zeilman 17 as the Sawyers cake-walked to the title. Rondout was never in striking distance after trailing by 13 at intermission, and trailed by as much as 25 (65-40) with 4:32 to go in the game.

Kerin Outplays Mustion

Kerin outplayed his highly-regarded counterpart, John Mustion and forced him to foul out for the first time in his career late in the game. But by that time the game was way out of Rondout's reach and the only thing that was in doubt was the final tally.

Mustion was held to a season-al low of 12, but played the game under a handicap of too many fouls. He incurred three personals as early as the second quarter and played most of the second half with four before being forced to the sidelines.

Saugerties actually wrapped up the game while Mustion was sitting it out near the end of the first half. Rondout trailed by 8, but the Sawyers spurted for seven straight points to take a commanding halftime lead.

Sawyers Wreck Zone

Saugerties cut the former champions' zone defense to ribbons with a devastating fast break attack paced by Zeilman. The crew-cut operative broke ahead of the field for at least five baskets which helped seal the win.

In the third period Kerin and Zeilman enjoyed their biggest output. Each scored 8 points as the Sawyers hopped to a 57-36 three-quarter margin.

Saugerties kept pouring it on until the final period until the 2:33 mark when Smith ran in all his reserves. By that time the spread was 65-42.

Kerin's basket midway through the first period gave Saugerties a 9-8 lead and it was never caught. At the first period break the score was 17-11.

Don Mormile, a promising sophomore, pitched in a half dozen markers in the second quarter drive, but Zeilman was the big gun with nine as SHS outscored Rondout, 19-10, for a 36-21 halftime lead.

Gilman Standsout

Tom Gilman played perhaps the best game for Rondout and led his club in scoring with 13. Mustion, who played another tremendous board game, made his 12 on five baskets and 2 fouls, while Gilman's total was on 6 goals and 1 free throw.

Poor foul shooting also hurt Chick Meehan's club. They hit a dismal 8 for 23, while Saugerties made good 13 of 34. A total of 28 fouls were called in the game.

Both clubs ended regular season play with impressive 18-2 records. Their UCAL marks going in to the game were 11-1.

Their next outing will be Friday in the Sectionals at Middletown. Saugerties plays Nyack and Rondout faces Warwick in a doubleheader.

Goldbacks Gain Sixth Crown For Masterson

Roscino, Riley Big Guns in NFA Triumph

Newburgh Free Academy won its sixth DUSO League basketball pennant under Coach George S. (Lanky) Masterson with an easy 68-52 conquest of Port Jervis in the championship playoff before nearly 2,000 spectators last night at the Kate Walton field house.

Except for the first quarter when they sputtered and stumbled and fell behind 12-7, the Goldbacks easily dominated a ball game which mechanically failed to come up to expectations.

Midway in the second period Newburgh went ahead to stay, 21-19, on a driving layup by substitute Leroy Riley, who shared hero honors with mercury-footed Dom Roscino. By halftime the Goldbacks had pulled ahead 27-22 and by the end of the third quarter were romping 51-32.

Osowick Scores 20

Big Alex Osowick, a unanimous All-DUSO selection, finished with 20 points, but none were big points and he was shackled in the early going when Port needed help. Newburgh's pressing defense, superior bench and greater speed—especially Roscino—paid off on the spacious field house hardwoods.

A good foul shooting performance—22 out of 35—saved the tri-staters from utter humiliation. While Rod Coleman, Dale De George and Riley were taking turns hounding Osowick, the remainder of the Port Jervis cast failed to come up to its seasonal standard.

Beccaccio Leads NFA

Al Beccaccio was Newburgh's top scorer with 15 points but it was Roscino and Riley who "killed" Port. Riley potted a couple of key baskets to give Newburgh the lead when Newburgh was making its bid in the second period while Roscino ran the tri-staters into the boards. He scored 11 points, intercepted passes and passed off with the finesse of a Bob Cousy. He was definitely Newburgh's No. 1 boy in the clutch.

Five points by Osowick helped Port gain a 12-7 quarter lead but Newburgh bounced back with three straight baskets to go ahead 15-13 on a layup by Roscino. Mack drove under to square it later at 19-19. The Port fate was sealed in the next few moments when Riley, Beccaccio and Riley again hit layups to send Newburgh ahead 25-19. It was never really close after that.

Osowick picked up a half dozen fields and added eight free throws but missed consistently with his vaunted hook shot. Mack contributed 12 points and Russ Devore had 10.

In the final analysis, Newburgh "benched" Port Jervis to death. The Goldbacks have no outstanding big stars in the Osowick - Tannenbaum - Merritt mould but they have a solid bench—best in the league—and it paid off last night.

Next stop for the victorious Goldbacks is a rugged assignment with Nott Terrace of Schenectady Friday at the field house in the opening round of the inter-sectionals.

Burdette and Coan Giving Owners Biggest Headaches

The Associated Press

When Lew Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves and Gil Coan of the Detroit Tigers set a price on their services, man, they mean it.

Burdette, a 19-game winner for the Braves last season, has packed up his family, left camp at Bradenton, Fla., and today was vacationing with friends waiting for the club to make the next move.

Coan was even more emphatic. He has decided to ask Commissioner Ford Frick to place him on the voluntary retired list after failing to reach an agreement with the Tigers after being drafted from Minneapolis of the American Assn.

Piersall a Holdout

The Boston Red Sox, too, are having their troubles bringing outfielder Jim Piersall into the fold. But his case isn't quite as serious as the other two. He has reported to the Sox camp in Sarasota, Fla., and is in top shape.

Burdette and Coan both appeared bitter over their treatment.

"They can't starve me out," snapped Burdette, the last of the Braves' holdouts. "I don't have to worry about living expenses . . . I'm doing all right selling lots here.

"I had a good season last year and that's the time to strike—when the iron is hot. I'm not going to budge from the figure I want."

Said General Manager Bob Quinn cryptically:

"We have exchanged ideas."

Holding Up Letter

Coan, a 32-year-old outfielder who toiled for the Washington Senators for several years, said he was holding up his letter to Frick until he hears from Johnny McHale, Tiger personnel director.

"If they pay what I asked," he bristled, "I'll play. If they don't, I'm through."

A Tiger spokesman at their Lakeland, Fla., base, said the team might make an appeal if Coan knew at the end of last season that he wouldn't play this year.

Piersall reportedly is seeking a $7,500 raise for his .293 batting average of last season. General Manager Joe Cronin admitted that his latest talks with the outfielder have been in vain.

The Chicago White Sox, however, had good news from their holdout front. Forty-two-year-old Ellis Kinder of the pitching corps agreed to a contract by phone and is heading for camp at Tampa, Fla.

Golden Gloves Finals Tonight

Chicago, March 6 (AP)—Survivors from an original field of 256 boxers who started out in eliminations at 32 centers tonight swing for titles in the Golden Gloves tournament of champions at Chicago Stadium.

Fourteen bouts in all will be crammed into the windup night, including semifinals, as well as finals, in the 112, 118 and 126-pound divisions.

Championship bouts in the 147, 160, lightheavyweight and heavyweight divisions—and possibly the 135-pound class if time permits—will be nationally televised and broadcast (ABC, 10 p. m. EST).

Finals in the three lighter brackets will make up the last part of the program and some of these even may be beamed if time is shortened by a series of knockouts.

Each bout is scheduled for three rounds.

Only 3 Amateur Bouts

Eddie Machen, Redding, Calif., heavyweight, fought only three bouts in the amateur ranks.

Trainer Johnny Nerud, who handles racing standouts Switch On and Gallant Man, formerly was a jockey agent for Ted Atkinson.

Casey in Form

Stengel's Double Talk Livens Up Yank's Camp

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6 (AP)—The Casey Stengel oratorical society meets nightly in the second floor press room of the hotel where his New York Yankees stay during spring training. The oratory is strictly Stengelese, prodded by questions he seldom bothers to answer. The monologues are punctuated with gestures.

Now he is Casey Stengel the outfielder, gliding across the carpet to catch a fly ball. Next he will be Jerry Coleman making the casual flip for a double play. Later he will imitate Lou Skizas of Kansas City at bat. Never missing a word.

Old Case loves to lead you up a twisting road of tangled verbs and leave you stranded while he nonchalantly shifts subject and names. Usually his characters are "that fella" or "my man," switching from one to the other so quickly that his listeners are never sure who he's talking about.

A's Deal Discussed

Stengel was talking about the recent deal with the Kansas City that prompted criticism from other clubs in the American League and talk of the A's being a farm club.

"Tell me, who did I ever get from Kansas City that helped me?" He asked. "Except for Slaughter (Enos) and I gave him to them first and then got him back. Outside of these two pitchers (Art Ditmar and Bobby Shantz) who haven't played for me yet, what did I get from them?

"Let me ask you something. Do you swap your house to your best buddy just because he has four kids and you have only two?"

Casey let it hang there with the implication that baseball was no charitable institution and he wasn't making any buddy-buddy swaps. For no good reason the subject shifted to the old days when Case was a lefthanded second baseman.

High School Days

"The only guy I could beat out on our high school team was the second baseman. So I played it lefthanded. Supposing I should take some lefthander like Shantz and put him on shortstop. Everybody would throw up their hands in the air and say 'Oh my, the old man is going out of his head.' But how do you know he couldn't do it. Just because it isn't been done, doesn't make it impossible. I know one thing he can play that infield pretty good around the pitching mound."

Soon Stengel was off and running in another direction, explaining his platoon system and his pre-camp school.

Versatile Players

"I got men who can go two or three ways. If a man comes to this club and says he don't want to play another position, he won't be here long. Look at this McDougald (Gil). He comes as a third baseman, plays second and then last year he plays as good a shortstop as there is in the league. They say he has a funny stance and he don't look easy but he hits .300 (.311 actually) and he gets 'em out."

Before anybody could catch his breath old Case was swinging into the old days of the "croquet ball," the life and times of Hack Wilson and night ball. If you missed the end, come back tomorrow. It will be more of the same.

Rick Starr Returns--Against Cowboy Lee

Mat Feature Slated March 13

Promoter Ted Bayly of Troy broke the exciting news today.

Ricki Starr, the marvelous one, returns to Kingston Wednesday, March 13, to battle colorful Cowboy Don Lee of Del Rio, Texas, in the best-of-three falls feature bout.

Starr, the current No. 1 glamour boy of professional wrestling, packed the auditorium in his maiden showing here when he demolished proud and haughty Karl Von Hess in straight falls.

Perfect Opponent

Cowboy Lee, 235 pounds of wrestling skill and showmanship, scored a big hit with Kingston fans two weeks ago when he used a "sleeper" to beat Len Rossi of Utica.

Lee is the type of opponent who should bring out the very best in Starr.

Promoter Bayly said Starr was pleased at the fans' response to him about a month ago and has promised his full routine. That includes ballet warm-up exercises before the bout and a full ballet routine while hassling with the corpulent Mr. Lee.

The other bouts will be announced later.

Fabius Runs 1st At Gulfstream

Miami, Fla., March 5 (AP)—Calumet Farm's Fabius, winner of the Preakness last year, put on a blazing stretch run today to capture the $12,075 Armed Handicap, opening-day feature at Gulfstream Park before a surprisingly large turnout of 23,026.

With Willie Hartack in the irons, Fabius packed 125 pounds and then ran the six furlongs in 1:10 2/5 over a track labeled fast, although the race was run in a shower and the skies opened up after the event.

Winner by a half length over M. K. Robinson's Singer, a 50 to 1 shot, Fabius returned $4.20, $3.70 and $3.

President Asked To Back Games

Washington, March 5 (AP)—Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D., Ohio, urged President Eisenhower today that Congress vote the $4,900,000 he budgeted for the Pan-American track and field games scheduled for Cleveland in 1959.

"Recent developments in Congress cast serious doubts upon the possibility of approval by Congress of Federal funds for the construction of facilities" for the games, Vanik wrote the President.

Adelphi Wins Berth in NAIA

Jersey City, N. J., March 6 (AP)—Adelphi proved it could lick Panzer twice in a season last night and won the NAIA District 31 playoff in the process, 83-67.

Its superior scoring punch and rebounding put the Garden City, N. Y. college in front 43-33 at the half here. Panzer tied the score four times in the first five minutes but began to slip back.

Adelphi really poured it on in the second half. Panzer tried a zone defense to stop the rout but Adelphi answered with an eight-point rally.

Jim Funk of Adelphi was high for the night with 19 points. Don Feeley of Panzer had 15.

Basketball Wrapup

Dons Clinch Tourney Bid

(By The Associated Press)

The University of San Francisco, NCAA basketball champions for the last two years, had a chance today (Wed.) to try for an unprecedented third straight as the last of the major college tournament contenders were joining the lineup.

San Francisco trimmed St. Mary's 62-41 last night to capture the California Basketball Assn. title, while St. Louis University and Lafayette joined the NCAA tourney field without firing a shot.

The Kansas Jayhawks also can qualify by defeating Kansas State tonight in a Big Seven Conference battle at Manhattan, Kan. Should Kansas State pull an upset, Kansas still could clinch honors by beating Colorado Saturday.

Wichita Jolts Bradley

Wichita handed the Missouri Valley Conference title to the St. Louis Billikens last night by downing second place Bradley 99-91 on a 33-point scoring rampage by little Joe Stevens. Oklahoma A. & M. meets the Billikens tonight at St. Louis, but the contest has lost much of its glitter.

San Francisco will play in the Western Regional tournament at Corvallis, Ore., March 15-16, meeting the winner of the March 11 game at Pocatello, Idaho, between Idaho State and Texas Western.

Lafayette College was chosen by a Middle Atlantic Conference committee to play in the NCAA eastern regional tourney at Philadelphia March 15-16. The Leopards were selected over Temple because of their better over-all record (22-3). Lafayette meets the winner of the Syracuse-Connecticut NCAA tourney game at New York March 12.

A short time later the National Invitation Tournament named Temple (18-7) as the 10th team in the NIT scramble beginning March 16 at Madison Square Garden.

Ivy League

The Ivy League title also is near solution, with Yale at Pennsylvania tonight. Yale leads the loop 10-2 and can clinch a tie by defeating Penn, and win the crown by defeating impotent Harvard on Saturday. Dartmouth (9-3) plays Harvard tomorrow and Cornell Saturday.

St. Louis plays its first game in the NCAA West Regional tourney at Dallas March 15, meeting the winner of the March 12 game at Oklahoma City between Loyola of New Orleans and Oklahoma City University.

Utah, runnerup to Brigham Young in the Skyline Conference, and Bradley appear favorites to fill the last two spots in the National Invitation, but Duquesne and St. Joseph's (Pa.) are still in the running.

There was plenty of action, meanwhile, in the first round of the NCAA's small college playoffs. Winners will meet in the second round Saturday, with the quarterfinals, semifinals and finals at Evansville, Ind., March 13-15.

St. Michael's of Winooski, Vt., downed Amherst 80-63, and plays Rider (N. J.) in the second round at Burlington, Vt. Rider won a 63-61 thriller over Drexel Tech on freshman Jack Madden's 20-foot jump shot just as the game ended.

Carolina Five Wins

North Carolina College easily defeated Florida A&M, 78-61, and meets Mount St. Mary's Saturday at Emmittsburg, Md. Mount St. Mary's had ousted CCNY Monday night.

Chuck Daniels scored 32 points to lead University of Buffalo to a 75-64 victory over Capital (Ohio) University. Evansville, Ind., winner Monday over Illinois Normal, plays at Buffalo Saturday.

Kentucky Wesleyan eliminated Depauw (Ind.) 77-62, with Mason Cope pacing the winners with 29 points. Eddie Fritts, a substitute forward, scored a goal as the final buzzer sounded to give East Tennessee State a 62-61 overtime victory over Kentucky Wesleyan at Owensboro, Ky.

The University of South Dakota defeated Monmouth (Ill.) 62-52, and qualified for the second round, but the NCAA will have to iron out a problem as Jackson State (Miss.) College for Negroes withdrew from the tourney due to present racial difficulties. The Saturday game had been scheduled for Vermillion, S. D.

Wheaton, Ill., defeated Minnesota-Duluth Branch 84-75, and qualified to meet Beloit (Wis.) which romped over Superior (Wis.) 103-79. This second round game is scheduled at Elmhurst, Ill.

Buffalo Passes 1st Tourney Test

By The Associated Press

The University of Buffalo, safely past its first-round opponent in the NCAA small college basketball tournament, meets Evansville, Ind., College Saturday.

Buffalo breezed by Capital University of Columbus, Ohio, 75-64 last night, mainly on the scoring of little Chuck Daniels.

Elsewhere upstate, Clarkson defeated St. Lawrence 86-75 and Oswego Teachers downed Albany Teachers 72-64.

Daniels, an old-fashioned set-shot artist, talied 32 points as the Bulls cut the Ohio Conference champion's zone defense to ribbons. Mike Outcalt was high for Capital with 24 points.

The Buffalo-Evansville game will be played in Buffalo.

Oswego, paced by freshman Ron Davis who scored 25 points, finished its season with 14 victories and four losses. Albany, with one game left, is 16-4.

Clarkson scored 10 straight points in the last five minutes to break open the see-saw game with St. Lawrence, a traditional rival. The contest, last of the season for both teams, gave Clarkson a 9-8 record and St. Lawrence a 6-12 mark.

The only action tonight is the Syracuse-Cornell game at Ithaca.

On the Button

McAlester, Okla. (AP) — Baird Martin took a bulky package to the Railway Express station and remarked he thought it would weigh about 75 pounds. Agent Warren Magruder replied: "I don't believe it will weigh that much. I'd say about 58 pounds." He put it on the scales: It weighed 58 pounds.

Hot Prisoner

Janesville, Wis. (AP) — Three firemen raced up the city hall steps in answer to a fire alarm, but they didn't have to go any farther. Police Sgt. Laurel Kapke came running out of the building with the source of the alrm—a jail prisoner's jacket that had somehow caught fire. The blaze was confined to the jacket.

Nyack Earns Right to PlaySawyers

Nyack High whipped impotent Suffern High, 46-32, yesterday at Haverstraw in a playoff for second place in the Rockland County PSAL to earn a berth in the Class B Sectionals playoffs.

The Indians will face Saugerties High Friday at Middletown in the opening part of a doubleheader. In the afterpiece, Rondout Valley Central will take on Warwick Valley Central.

Nyack and Suffern finished the season with 9-3 records and two games behind perennially strong Haverstraw High. The Red Raiders won the title with an 11-1 mark.

Can't Find Range

Inability to find the hoop cost the Mounties the game. They didn't break the 30-mark until the final two minutes of play.

Warren Crane shone for the winners, particularly off the backboards where he outrebounded Suffern's highly-regarded Bill Collishaw. Collishaw was held to just six points while Crane, who stands 6-2, meshed 11.

John Glass of Nyack paced the scorers with 13. Paul Wilner of the losers topped his team with 11.

Suffern led 11-10 at the first quarter, but Nyack took over for good at halftime 23-17. The three-quarter score was 34-20.

Knicks Face Elimination

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Knickerbockers face elimination from the National Basketball Assn. playoffs tonight as Syracuse and Philadelphia continue their struggle for second place in the Eastern Division.

The Knicks saw their flickering hopes dwindle when they bowed to Syracuse 99-92 in the second game of the twinbill in New York last night. In the opener Philadelphia overwhelmed Fort Wayne's Western Division leaders 114-80.

Hawks Gain Ground

In another key game in Boston the St. Louis Hawks edged the Eastern champion Celtics 104-102 to climb within half a game of Fort Wayne. Tonight's schedule pits New York at Syracuse and Philadelphia at Rochester. Syracuse and Philadelphia victories will mathematically eliminate the Knicks from finishing third and also keep the teams tied for second.

The Knicks now are 3½ games behind the Nats and the Warriors with only four games remaining including two against the Nats and one against the Warriors. Philadelphia and Syracuse both have five games left.

Syracuse dealth a blow to New York's chances with a fourth period flurry that left the Knicks gasping for breath. After New York had sliced the Nats' 11-point lead to two points, Syracuse reeled off nine straight points to pull into a commanding 91-80 advantage.

Conlin, Schayes Lead

Ed Conlin and Dolph Schayes, who learned their basketball in the school yards of New York city, topped the Nats with 24 and 21 points respectively. Kenny Sears was high for the Knicks with 19.

Paul Arizin collected 23 points and Joe Graboski added 22 to pace the Warriors to their easy conquest.

Rookie Tom Heinsohn clicked for 41 points in Boston's losing effort. Red Auerbach, the Celts' coach, said he was playing the game under protest because of a goal-tending call on Big Bill Russell.

The Hawks, in their effort to overhaul Fort Wayne, have four games to play. The Pistons have five to go.

Pensacola Golf Set for Opening

Pensacola, Fla., March 6 (AP)—Most of the nation's top golfers tuned up their game today for the Pansacola Open, but practice and qualifying scores indicated little need for tuneup jobs.

The par of 72 has been treated with dsdain by most of the entries in the $15,000 tournament, whose first round is scheduled for tomorrow.

In qualifying yesterday, Darrell Hickok of Arlington Heights, Ill., posted a 66. He was followed by Pat Schwab of Dayton, Ohio, a University of Florida student, 67; and Tony Orondrus of Northville, Mich., 69.

Golfers had to score 76 or lower to qualify. Doug Ford shot 71.

Home Run Hitters

Frank Robinson and Ted Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Redlegs hit home runs in every National League park during 1956.

New Catskill Ski Center Proposed to Legislature

Albany, March 5 (AP)—A legislative committee that has recommended a $2,500,000 ski development on Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks disclosed today that it planned another ski center in the Catskills.

The leaders of the committee on winter tourists said in a statement they had asked the Legislature continue the committee another year.

This would enable the committee to "make an intensive study of the Catskill region, to discover the best site for establishment of another state-built winter recreation center there," Assemblyman Robert G. Main of Malone, and Sen. Robert C. McEwen of Ogdensburg, said.

Promise New Site

"We can state positively that—if continued the committee would recommend to the 1958 Legislature that "steps be taken to construct new winter sports facilities in the Catskills."

Main is chairman and McEwen is vice-chairman of the committee. Both are Republicans.

The state now operates Belleayre in the Catskills.

Main and McEwen did not say what size development was contemplated or where it would be.

Democratic Gov. Harriman had endorsed the Whiteface project, which the committee says would be of Olympic calibre and unsurpassed in the east.

Praise Given 156th Guard At Inspection

Kingston units of the 156th Field Artillery, New York Nation Guard, received their annual inspection Monday by a First Army inspection team from the office of the inspector general whose headquarters is located on Governor's Island.

No official report is expected for several weeks but it was reported that the team was well pleased with the local units, maintenance of equipment, administration and training.

Members of the team commented on the "terrific strides" made by the battalion in preparing itself for combat mission. The inspection was described as "very thorough." No major deficiencies were noted by the visiting team, it was said.

Lasts Full Day

The inspection was an all-day affair, beginning at 1 p. m., and continuing throughout the afternoon and evening until drill hour ended at 10:15 p. m.

Local units inspected were Headquarters, Headquarters Battery, Battery A, Service Battery and Medical Detachment.

Headquarters Battery has a full complement at the present time, it is reported. Three new enlistees were sworn in on the night of the inspection.

The visiting team was composed of Lt. Col. Charles A. Miller, Maj. Alexander Kasckow and Master Sergeants Harry Hamor and Robert J. O'Kane.

Named Chairman Of Local Jewish Welfare Campaign

HERMAN G. RAFALOWSKY

During the past chairman's cabinet meeting Tuesday, Herman G. Rafalowsky, local merchant and civic leader, was chosen to head the Kingston United Jewish Welfare Fund campaign for 1957.

Recognition of Mr. Rafalowsky's ability to sparkplug a successful fund raising campaign, led to his selection as the key figure in the Kingston attempt to raise an unprecedented amount of money as part of the $100 million Emergency Rescue Fund for the relief of Hungarian, North African and Iron Country refugees. The United Jewish Appeal has requested that Kingston attempt to collect 120 per cent additional funds for the current emergency and relief operation.

The meeting at which the campaign chairman was selected was attended by Herman Eaton, president of the Kingston Jewish Community Council; Benjamin Schecter, 1956 campaign chairman; Norman Rafalowsky, 1956 campaign treasurer; Joseph Honig, 1956 Initial Gifts Division chairman; Sol Silverman, executive secretary of the campaign and Harry Gold, Nathaniel B. Gross, Richard Kalish and Abraham Streifer all past chairmen of the Welfare Fund campaigns.

Complete support for the goals of the fund drive and the aims of the chairman were pledged by the cabinet group.

Jaycees Asking PublicSuggestions For Improved City

Residents of Kingston were invited today by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to suggest ways in which they think the city can be improved.

A list of suggestions for civic improvement is being formulated by the civic planning committee of the Junior Chamber.

John Shults, chairman of the committee, said today the Jaycees were "undertaking a new positive step to make Kingston a better city in which to live."

He said that in order not to miss a possible "area of betterment" the committee was asking the public to submit recommendations.

Mail-In Campaign

Letters or cards can be addressed to Civic Planning Committee, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Governor Clinton Hotel, City.

"Many ideas have already been presented for consideration," Mr. Shults told The Freeman.. He said each suggestion would be considered by the committee and a report submitted to the monthly meetings of the organization. The entire membership will have an opportunity to consider each recommendation.

Program Non-Political

He emphasized that the program was non-political and constructive in its aims.

He said the public was not only asked but "urged to submit any suggestion they may have.

Some of Ideas

Mr. Shults said that a partial list of ideas to be considered by the organization had already been drawn up and given some preliminary study. They are:

1. Do we need a sales tax to spread the cost of city operation?
2. Would a revised curfew be an effective method of combating juvenile delinquency?
3. The need for proper smoke control.
4. Renovation of creek frontage.
5. Need for public bulletin boards to inform community of local activities.
6. Examination of city manager plan.
7. How to make Kingston a more attractive place in which to reside. (a) Beautification of approach and (b) internal cleanup campaign.
8. Methods for treating and preventing objectional juvenile behavior.
9. Advantages of local purchasing and how it betters the community.
10. The proper areas for future zoning.

Easy Prey

Greenville, Ky. (AP) — Policeman Gordon Hudson figures he's one of the few law enforcement officers to chase a car on foot and catch it. Hudson spotted a drunken driver coming through town and promptly took after him on foot. He claims the car was easy to catch—all he had to do was run about 75 yards in a straight line while the car casually weaved from one side of the road to the other.

3 Killings Mar Final Day of Mardi Gras Fete

New Orleans, March 6 (AP)—Three killings marred the last day of Mardi Gras here. Two men and a woman met violent death yesterday only a few hours before New Orleans ended its traditional holiday flourish and turned solemnly to churches to begin the 40-day Lenten season.

Overworked street cleaners faced the mammoth task of ridding streets of debris from hundreds of parade floats, sidewalk lunches and floating beer and cocktail parties.

Uproarious Finale

A heavy rain Tuesday afternoon added to the untidiness of cluttered streets, but failed to dampen revelers' spirits.

Most of the city turned out early yesterday for the big event that climaxed two months of revelry. Balls and parties began the twelfth night after Christmas; street parades began Feb. 24.

The final fling was uproarious. Thousands upon thousands of visitors and natives turned out masked and costumed to represent almost every person, place and thing imaginable. They milled over several hundred blocks in the heart of the city.

Vehicular traffic halted most of the day in the area.

It was an official holiday and bars and restaurants were about the only business places open.

Shot by Negro

Three killings marred the day's celebrations. August During, 26-year-old engineering student at Tulane University, was shot fatally by a Negro after the two bumped while walking on a sidewalk. Police said Joseph Oliver Jenkins, 25, admitted the shooting. He was charged with murder.

A woman identified as Mrs. Blanche Moore, about 43, was shot to death during a fight and argument in a barroom. Police held the woman's husband, Arvest Moore, 41, and a woman, Gladys Coleman, 41, for investigation.

An unidentified Negro was stabbed to death among a crowd of 325 at a dance.

Seasonal Weather Due Next 5 Days

Albany, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—The extended weather forecasts for New York state, prepared by the U. S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7:30 p. m. today to 7:30 p. m. Monday:

Eastern New York—temperatures will average around normal seasonal levels Wednesday night through Monday. Moderate at the beginning. Turning colder over the weekend, and warming again the first of next week. Chance of some rain or snow at the beginning and again the first of next week. Total average precipitation near ½ inch.

Western New York—seasonable but more unsettled weather is likely with temperatures averaging near or a little below normal. Mostly cloudy and turning colder with occasional wet snow or rain Thursday and Friday, clearing and cold with snow flurries Saturday and Sunday. Snow or rain and warmer Monday. Total precipitation ¼ to ½ inch.

Temperature normals—normally early March temperatures for upstate New York show daytime highs in the middle and upper 30s and overnight lows going down to about 15 to 20.

Benson Ford Ailing

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 6 (AP)—Benson Ford, 37, grandson of Henry Ford II and vice president of the Ford Motor Co., is under observation for a "very mild" heart attack suffered during his Palm Beach winter vacation. His wife confirmed the nature of Ford's ailment yesterday. She said all further statements must come from Detroit. A Ford Co. spokesman said a doctor described the attack as "very mild." He said Ford would remain at Good Samaritan Hospital for two or three weeks.

Held on Check Charge

Harry De Gel, 61, of RD 1, Rhinebeck, was arrested at 9:40 p. m. Tuesday on a charge of issuing a fraudulent check. He was picked up at Rhinebeck state police station on a warrant by Officers William Slover and Leonard Ellsworth of the local police department. The case was adjourned in City Court today until Thursday.

Ghana Is Given $20,000 Library As Gift From U. S.

Accra, Ghana, March 6 (AP)—U. S. Vice President Nixon presented a 2,000-volume technical library to the newly independent government of Ghana today as a symbol of American desire to assist the West African nation.

Nearing the end of a four-day goodwill visit, Nixon offered the library, valued at between $15,000 and $20,000, to Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah in an Independence Day ceremony at the government state house.

Thousands Rejoice

Thousands of rejoicing Ghanians still milled around the capital's streets after nightlong celebrations. Most of the 72 foreign delegations showered independence gifts on the tiny country which now is an independent nation within the British Commonwealth.

Russia's delegation was reported giving Nkrumah a Soviet transport plane and some Russian automobiles.

Nixon, who leaves tomorrow for Liberia to continue his eight-nation Africa tour, also presented Nkrumah with an etched Steuben glass vase depicting the four freedoms of the press, assembly, religion and speech.

First Negro Nation

The red, gold and green flag of Ghana was run up in midnight ceremonies, replacing the British Union Jack and signifying formally the establishment of the first negro nation in the British Commonwealth.

Mighty roars of "freedom! freedom!" rose from thousands of throats as the hour marking the transition of power arrived. Brilliant fireworks exploded against the sky and talking drums carried along the word of independence.

"We are no more slaves," Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah told a throng of 50,000 assembled at Accra's polo grounds. "Move about with your chest out."

Syria to Allow Pipe Line Repairs

London, March 6 (AP)—Syria agreed today to allow the repair of damaged pipelines in the country and the pumping of oil to Mediterranean ports.

The Iraq Petroleum Co., here and Damascus dispatches said the Syrian government's decision was reached following Israel's agreement to withdraw her troops from the Gulf of Aqaba and Gaza Strip areas. There was no immediate information on whether the hitch in evacuation of Israeli forces might alter the Syrian decision.

Stations Blown Up

Booster stations along IPC pipelines from Iraq through Syria to the coast were blown up by the Syrian army soon after the Israeli attack in Egypt's Sinai desert. The American-owned tapline from Saudi Arabia was not molested.

The cutting off of the IPC pipeline flow, together with the closing of the Suez Canal, brought on gasoline and fuel rationing in Britain and European countries.

Syria had refused to permit repairs as long as Israeli troops occupied positions seized in the invasion.

Damascus dispatches said Syrian Premier Sabri Assali gave the permission in a 45-minute meeting today with Sulieman Muddares, IPC director in Damascus. U. S. Ambassador James S. Moose Jr., was present at the meeting.

Pack 13 Banquet Features Award, Cub Graduation

Patriotic table decorations furnished the theme for the annual Blue and Gold Banquet held by Cub Pack 13 on Feb. 26 at School No. 7. A ham dinner, prepared by Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Dempsey of the school cafeteria, was enjoyed by over 100 Cubs and members of their families. Favors made by the boys at their den meetings were varied and interesting.

Following the dinner, an annual inspection of the Cubs was held under the direction of Scout Commissioner and Den Dad Edward Safford. The ceremonial part of the meeting was opened with a salute to the flag led by Robert Schnitzer and honor guard composed of boys from Den. 3.

Den Chief Welcomed

Business matters regarding re-registration, insurance and subscriptions to Boys' Life Magazine were discussed. Gary Terwilliger, Boy Scout from Troop 3, was welcomed into the Pack as a den chief of Den 3.

The following awards were presented. Wolf Bodge, Wayne Terwilliger; Bear Badges, Jan Vel and Bruce Krom; Lion Badge, John Bohan. Arrows were awarded as follows: Wolf gold arrow, Bruce Ronnenberg; Wolf silver arrows, Bruce Ronnenberg (2), Philip Stymfal (2), Bernard Orr; Bear gold arrows, Bruce Krom, Jan Vel; Bear silver arrows, Jan Vel, Justin Beck (2), Brian Findholt (2), Thomas Krom (3), Bruce Safford, John Bohan; Lion gold arrows, John Bohan, David Sergeant; Lion silver arrows, Michael Angstrom, John Bohan (2), David Sergeant (2). Denner's stripes were presented to Brian Findholt and Assistant Denner's Stripes to Jan Vel.

The highlight of the evening's awards was a Webelos and graduation ceremony for Andrew Daly, Den 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Daly of Flatbush road. After being given his Webelos badge in a candlelight ceremony, Den Chief Jon Angstrom handed him a Boy Scout neckerchief and slide, a gift of the Pack and he was presented with the ribbons which he had earned by participating in cubbing activities with his den. He was then welcomed into Troop 3 by Mr. Sill, scoutmaster, and a patrol from that troop.

The closing ceremony was led by Ronald Storm of Den 3.

Sees Nixon for GOP

Kennedy Urges Reappraisal of Democrat Party

New York, March 6 (AP)—Sen. John E. Kennedy (D.-Mass.) today proposed a "penetrating reappraisal" of the Democratic party.

He called for "new ideas, new policies and new faces" to help it stage a comeback in the 1960 presidential election.

Sees Tough Opponent

Kennedy, writing in Life magazine, predicted Vice President Richard M. Nixon would be the Republican candidate for president in 1960 and said he would be "a tough, skillful, shrewd opponent."

"It will take more than abusive statements to beat Mr. Nixon—those he can read riding in the 1961 inaugural parade," Kennedy said.

The senator said the Democrats faced a problem in that the Republican Party has become "sufficiently progressive and internationalist, at least in appearance, to blur the once distinctive position of the Democrats."

Gives Six Points

Kennedy promised this six-point program for the Democrats:

"1. The Democratic Party must be increasingly willing to embrace new ideas, new policies and new faces, unafraid of controversial issues or candid criticism.

"2. Democratic leaders must be increasingly willing to put the party's future ahead of sectional, factional and personal disputes and ambitions. . . .

"3. Congressional Democrats must shape a responsible progressive record with deeds that match our words. For it is precisely this gap between rhetoric and the record that casts doubt on the new liberalism of the Republicans. . . .

"4. Congressional Democrats must demonstrate leadership in the problems of prosperity as they have in the past on the problems of poverty. We need not run against Herbert Hoover. . . .

"5. Democratic spokesmen in and out of Congress must be willing to offer constructive opposition in the field of foreign policy. . . .

"6. Finally, and perhaps most important of all, Democrats on the local level must be willing to substitute new life and new leadership for the luxury of petty local factionalism."

From 1949 to 1953 he starred in the London Productions of "Annie Get Your Gun" and "Kiss Me Kate."

Coyote Resembles Jackal

Although it is sometimes called the "prairie wolf," the coyote is much smaller than the true wolf and more closely resembles the jackal.
